QUAKE TO-DAY IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Railwaymen Ask Other Unions' Aid On Wage Question

Running Trades Await Reply of C.P.R. and C.N.R. to Notification Majority of Men Voted For Strike Rather Than Accept Second Ten Per Cent Reduction

Group Leaders Are Meeting in Montreal

Canadian Press
Montreal, Oct. 2.—Financial support from headquarters of the international brotherhoods in Washington has been asked by railway running trades union heads in their fight against wage reductions by Canadian railways, it was reported to-day.

Five union vice-presidents and twenty-one general chairmen were in conference here behind closed doors to discuss the situation. The majority of their 30,000 members in Canada were in favor of a strike. The vote was taken in consequence of a second 10 per cent cut in the basic wage rates.

Consultation with leaders of other unions was being sought in the hope a united labor front could be presented to the railways.

The railways have offered no comment.

Figures in the strike vote have not been announced.

POSTAL DEPUTY IS SUSPENDED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 2.—L. J. Gaboury, deputy postmaster-general and Arthur Webster, secretary of the Post Office Department, have been suspended by the Prime Minister pending investigation of an expenditure made during the World Postal Convention held here. The expenditure was made to supply delegates to the convention with a souvenir album, and it is stated it was unauthorized.

Six Months For Poppy Growers

Magistrate Sends Three Hindus to Jail on Drug Charges

Minimum Penalty Given in Test Case; High Content of Morphine Claimed

Possession of dried poppy heads was held to be unlawful under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning, when he found three local Hindus guilty of having morphine in their possession.

The trio, Beru, Sohan and Ditto, were sentenced to six months imprisonment and fined $200, or an additional month of confinement.

Stuart Henderson, defence counsel, asked for a stated case on the proceedings, intimating he might carry the case further. There is no direct appeal allowed under the act.

The magistrate's judgment was brief. "The accused," he said in the case of Beru, "is charged with having morphine in his possession on August 11. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police found a quantity of dried poppy heads at his premises. These, on analysis, were found to contain a high percentage of morphine."

"The contention for the defence was that the act only applies to drugs in the manufactured state, and not to a case of this sort, where it is in the natural state."

"After carefully considering the matter, I cannot agree with the contention of the defence. There is no doubt these poppy heads are kept for the purpose of use as a drug. The Opium and Narcotic Drug Act is for the purpose of preventing the use of drugs. I think the circumstances under which these poppy heads were found and the use to which they were put, and the quantity of morphine they contained, are sufficient to justify a conviction."

In view of the fact that it was a test case the minimum penalty was imposed.

GAS OVERCOMES SCHOOL PUPILS

Edmonton, Oct. 2.—Eight children at the Grandin School were overcome by gas fumes this morning. The children were rushed to a nearby hospital and it is stated all have a good chance of recovery.

NON-PARTISANS SELECT SLATE

W. J. Bowser, Ald. W. Luney, Geo. McGregor and C. R. Bishop Will Be Nominated

Eighteen Candidates Now in Field in Victoria For Provincial Election

Abandoning the plan to call a nominating convention, the Non-Partisan Group has selected its slate of candidates for the provincial election. The four candidates announced from the offices of W. J. Bowser, K.C., to-day are: W. J. Bowser, Alderman Walter Luney, George McGregor and Charles R. Bishop.

Mr. Bowser has also been listed to be a candidate in Vancouver Centre and it is probable he will run in both constituencies.

Absence of the name of R. Hayward, who has announced himself as an independent candidate, confirms the report that he did not plan to throw in his lot with the Conservatives linked up in the new organization of which Mr. Bowser and R. W. Bruhn are regarded as leaders.

To-day's list of our new candidates brings the list in the field in Victoria to eighteen, with twenty-five as the probable number. There are now four Liberal candidates, four Non-Partisan candidates, four C.C.F. candidates, one United Front and five Independents. Tolmie Unionists will nominate a slate of four this week. It is probable three more Conservatives will be elected to run with Mr. Hayward.

RELIEF TANGLE TO BE SETTLED

Prime Minister Promises Complete Check-up of Alberta Situation

Canadian Press
Calgary, Oct. 2.—Complete check of Alberta's unemployment situation has been promised by Prime Minister Bennett, and a report will be made through the Department of National Defence, according to Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta. Mr. Brownlee passed through Calgary, en route to Edmonton from Ottawa, where he has been acting on the Royal Commission on Banking.

The unemployment tangle arose from the new agreement between the province and the Dominion relative to the administration of relief for physically fit, single unemployed men. The agreement states the Dominion will administer relief for single unemployed men in which work of a National Defence in charge of the camps under the new agreement, has indicated it will take over only those provincial camps in which work of a National character is being done.

This would mean six camps would be taken over and fourteen others would continue to be administered by the Alberta Relief Commission. But under the new agreement the commission has no authority to continue such camps.

C.C.F. Plan State Of Socialism and End of Depression

Would Regulate Production Marketing and Finance Under Party's Plan

Vast Development Programme Is Objective Training of Children

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation hopes to build up in British Columbia a Socialist state which will solve the present depression.

Plans for the "new economic order," which will shortly be given to the voting public of the province from campaign platforms were drawn up at the convention of the provincial council here yesterday in a programme which takes into account labor, agriculture, finance, health education and general development.

Upon this platform the C.C.F. will appeal for a majority at the polls on November 2. It has twelve planks, as follows:

- (1) Planning. The development of a socialized economic plan, in order to regulate the productive activities of the province; and to secure maximum efficiency in distribution and exchange.
 - (2) Finance. Co-operation with other provinces to obtain complete socialization of all the financial machinery of the country—banking, currency, credit and insurance—and, if compelled by a situation of provincial emergency, to develop purely provincial credit, based on provincial resources.
 - (3) Social ownership. The adoption by the province of the Federal C.C.F. plan for socialization of natural resources, public utilities and other industries and services essential to the economic plan.
 - (4) Agriculture. Security for the farmer of his use-land. Assistance to farmers in co-ordination of production and marketing of their products, and the establishment of orderly marketing by and through producers and consumers co-operatives, and such other assistance to all agriculturists as will enable them to obtain an adequate return for the products of their labor.
 - (5) Labor code. Introduction and enforcement of labor code to secure for the worker maximum income and leisure, unemployment insurance and effective participation in the management of his industry or profession.
- (Turn to Page 17, Col. 2)
- TARIFF HEARING
Ottawa, Oct. 2.—The Tariff Board, before which has come the application of the United Kingdom government for a downward revision of the Canadian tariff on textiles, will resume its hearings under Chairman G. H. Sedgewick to-morrow morning. It is expected all hearings this week will be closed to the public.

BOAT DISASTER OFF JAPAN COAST

Kumamoto, Japan, Oct. 2.—Known death toll in the capsizing of an overloaded excursion boat yesterday reached thirty-three with recovery of eleven bodies to-day. Of 130 persons aboard the small vessel, seventy were rescued and twenty-seven are missing.

REEVE CROUCH ENTERS FIELD

Outlines His Policy in Announcement of Candidature For B.C. Legislature

Will Be Independent, Pay Own Expenses and Have No Campaign Manager

Definite announcement was made to-day by Reeve William Crouch that he will run as an independent candidate in Saanich for a seat in the British Columbia Legislature.

The Reeve says he has no political affiliation, belongs to no clique, has no ward organization and will have no campaign manager. He will pay his own expenses and will not receive one cent of financial support from any man or party. "I will be just an independent, the same as I am in the Saanich Council, saying what I please and doing what I think is best for the interests of the people and the province," the Reeve declared.

He stated he is willing to co-operate and work with any party or group, which, in his opinion, will bring forth something for the good of the people and the province. He further stated, however, that he will at all times reserve the right to change his affiliation if in his opinion such action is desirable.

He will hold meetings, dates of which will be announced later, at Keating Temperance Hall, Mount View High School, St. Aidan's Hall, Marigold Hall and Lake Hill Community Hall.

THREAT HEARD FROM PRISON

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—A threat that Chris F. Ureel, millionaire oil man, "hasn't got long to live," was made at the closely guarded Oklahoma County jail here by George (Machine Gun) Kelly, identified by Ureel as one of the two men who abducted him for $200,000 ransom, officers said to-day.

"I wouldn't sell Ureel out for insurance," Elmer Jester, deputy United States marshal, said Kelly told him and one of the guards. "He hasn't long to live."

Kelly and his wife, Kathryn, daughter of Mrs. R. O. Shannon, one of the defendants convicted in the case Saturday, were brought here yesterday by airplane from Memphis, Tenn., where they were arrested last week.

Political Paragraphs

Island Battlefield Widens. C.C.F. Strife in Esquimalt. Soldiers in Politics. Conservatives Not Back in Fight.

Candidates nominated to date: Liberals 46, Tolmie Unionists 5, Independents 37, Bowrites 15, C.C.F. 41, Independent C.C.F. 8, United Front 14, Socialists 4. Total 169.

Capt. W. Ellis of the Seacroft Apartments, Oak Bay, will be the C.C.F. candidate for the Islands. Capt. Ellis is a member of the League for Social Reconstruction which is affiliated with the C.C.F.

Alex McDonald, Liberal candidate for the Gulf Islands, was in town from Sidney Saturday full of enthusiasm for the prospects of victory. While Mr. McDonald has not held as many meetings as some of his opponents, he has a band of willing Liberal workers and a solid organization. Canvasses have brought in encouraging reports.

The question has been raised as to whether there may be yet another candidate in the Islands. Capt. Ellis is the organization of the pensions tribunal. Col. Cy Peck is freed from his duties, and it has been suggested he may seek election to the Legislature for the constituency which he represented until he resigned to sit on the Pensions Tribunal.

A nominating convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation for Greater-Nelson riding, held in Nelson on Saturday, unanimously selected Dr. George A. C. Walley, young Nelson dentist, as candidate, no other name being presented. The convention also effected a riding-wide organization.

Discussion appears to exist among the Esquimalt C.C.F.'s over the selection of a candidate. John Mitchell, secretary-treasurer of the Esquimalt

Light Damage and Many Burglar and Fire Alarms Set Off In Los Angeles

NO JUDGE, SO ASSIZES WAIT

Calgary, Oct. 2.—The sessions of the criminal assize here were adjourned until October 10 to-day when opening of court revealed no judges available.

The Alberta Appeal Court was sitting here to-day and none of these judges was available for criminal court. The other judges were sitting in various courts in the province.

Soldiers Fight Ex-officers Barricaded in National Hotel: U.S. Citizen Slain

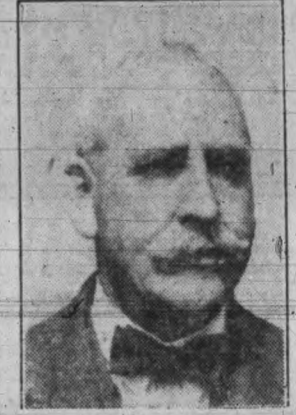

Corals Arrange Truce So Leave in Safety

Havana, Oct. 2.—Firing around the National Hotel ceased shortly after noon to-day after approximately twenty soldiers and one United States citizen, a bystander, had been slain, many other foreigners endangered and the Ford Motor Company's building damaged in a battle between soldiers and officers besieged in the hotel.

Escorted by armed guards, consular officials prevailed on Col. Fulgencio Batista, leading the attack from his headquarters inside the battle zone, to arrange a truce until citizens of the United States living in the district could be removed to safety.

Jail Volunteers In Microbe Test

Associated Press
Jackson, Miss., Oct. 2.—With the supposed virus of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, coursing through their veins, ten robust young Mississippi convicts in isolation to-day played cards and awaited the outcome of scientific experiments with the mosquito the centre of interest.

The experiment is designed to prove or disprove the theory the mosquito is the carrier of the disease.

The "boys" volunteers selected from a 200 hundred convicts who offered their bodies for the tests, are under the watchful eyes of officers of United States Public Health Service and Mississippi State medical experts.

ALBANS SET OFF

The job-stopped hundreds of burglar and fire alarms and the streets for half an hour afterwards were filled with apparatus with screaming sirens of police and fire-trucks answering false alarms.

Only two buildings, as far as reports to police and a survey revealed, were considerably damaged. They were the old central police station on First Street, where more than a ton of masonry was sent crashing into the street and where an automobile, parked at the curb, was crushed and a market building on Central Avenue, in the southern section of the city, the latter structure partially collapsed.

Governor of Hudson's Bay Company Convinced of Country's Ultimate Return to Prosperity

Expresses Complete Satisfaction With Progressive Policy Adopted By Company in Canada

"When I return to London it will be with renewed conviction of Canada's ultimate return to prosperity and of the firm place which the Hudson's Bay Company occupies in this country's destiny," said Major R. Ashley Cooper, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, in an interview with the Victoria Daily Times at the Empress Hotel today.

"I can conceive a prosperous Canada without a prosperous Hudson's Bay Company, but I cannot conceive a prosperous Hudson's Bay Company without a prosperous Canada," he commented in stressing the close bond which for centuries has linked the development of the Hudson's Bay Company with the development of Canada.

DEFINITE INDICATIONS
"I am not prepared to forecast early and rapid prosperity. Already there are definite indications in several world countries of an improvement in economic conditions."

Two Black Bears Shot Near Here

Stan Shemilt and John Blackstock Surprised By Them While Hunting Near Shawnigan

Yesterday was "Black Bear Day" for at least two Victoria hunters who went out after deer and came back with prospective living-room rugs.

The hunters were Stan Shemilt, of Pimlico & Ritchie, and John Blackstock of the City Police Force. Both shot their bears near Shawnigan Lake, Blackstock bagging the larger of the two.

Shemilt dropped his near the summit of the Malahat with a single shot through the neck from his 303 British rifle. This bear is now being displayed in front of Pimlico & Ritchie's store on View Street.

Blackstock got his nearer the lake, and while it was not actually measured or weighed, it required the assistance of the other two members of the party, Charlie Burr and Gen Darbyshire, to carry it to the car.

Aged Woman Dies of Heart Trouble Hours After Early Morning Seismic Disturbance in Coast Region

Thousands Rush Out Into Streets

Four Persons Injured; All Public Schools in City Closed Till Thorough Check-up of Walls Made

Los Angeles, Oct. 2.—A short and sharp earthquake which rocked Southern California at 1.10 a.m. to-day, resulted in at least one death, injuries to four persons and light property damage.

The coroner's office reported Mrs. Sophia Knapow, seventy-three, became hysterical after the shock and died a few minutes later.

Thousands pouring into the streets in their night clothes, that Frank Bouelle, superintendent of Los Angeles public schools, ordered all schools closed until such time as an official examination by competent engineers can be made.

"No pupil in the city schools will be permitted to enter a school building until the structure has been checked for safety," said Bouelle.

It was believed the schools would be open to-morrow.

The sharp quake, which lasted from four to five seconds, was preceded by a gentle swaying motion for at least fifteen seconds. The centre had not been determined by the Pasadena seismological laboratory of the Carnegie Institute, but the opinion was ventured it was either under the sea or in the desert.

ROBBERS ESCAPE WITH $20,000 LOOT

Veterans Criticize New Pension Commission

Canadian Press
Halifax, Oct. 2.—The personnel of the new Canadian Pension Commission, announced at Ottawa Saturday, "will not be satisfactory to the ex-service men of Canada," in the opinion of Major John S. Roper, national president of the Canadian Legion.

Major Roper expressed "great surprise" as he read some of the names, but in a message he asked members of the Legion to reserve their judgment and their criticism.

TURNER WELCOMED
"At the conclusion of the proceedings of the parliamentary committee everyone thought that, as far as possible, the new board would be an amalgamation of the former board of pensions commissioners and the Pension Tribunal," said Major Roper. "Unfortunately the Board of Pensions Commissioners in total, plus the Chief Medical Adviser, have been appointed, but only one member of the former pensions tribunal, Sir Richard Turner, who I am delighted to see appointed, is a member of the new board."

"I know the personnel will not be satisfactory to the ex-service men of Canada. The government of this country, however, has taken the responsibility, and I ask all members of the Canadian Legion to reserve their judgment."

CART BEFORE THE HORSE

Ottawa at last has got a national recovery programme of its own. It is quite simple. All the Canadian people have to do to put the country firmly back on its economic feet again is to spend more money.

Some are asking whether the Canadian leg is being pulled or whether Ottawa really does know how this proposal would be received by the country. An eastern contemporary which is by no means unfriendly to the government says "the mountain labored and brought forth just about the tiniest little shivering mouse human eye has ever beheld." To quote The Winnipeg Tribune:

Give the unemployed jobs and wages, and they will spend fast enough, for they are much in need. Give the employed some little measure of relief from taxes, and they will spend. With governments riding tight to death with taxes, stripping them to their shirts, where are they to get the money to spend?

Give those who have some accumulated savings some assurance of security, some prospect of national recovery, and they will spend money for the things they need. Leave them as they are now, fearful of what the future may bring forth, and their money will stay in the savings banks.

A spend-your-money campaign would be a mockery without some vigorous measures first to make it possible and secondly to give it point and effect.

This proposal from Ottawa is an imitation of part of the United States NRA programme; but it is like suggesting that the roof be put on the house before the foundation has been dug or the walls erected. The Roosevelt plan was to provide three billions of dollars for public works, guarantee bank deposits and put credit in a liquid state, make money available to great industries for expansion, inaugurate the NRA, pour out hundreds of millions to relieve farm mortgages, and inflate the currency to raise commodity prices. All this was to precede the "spend-your-money" part of the national recovery plan. Not until Canada has some programme in operation and showing results is it reasonable to ask people to spend money.

More than three years have elapsed since the present government took office. Its leaders pledged themselves in advance to end unemployment or perish in the attempt. It put its faith solely in higher tariffs. It boosted them all along the line with the natural result that trade has been restricted until now it is one-third of what it was three years ago.

The government has been implored to appoint a competent, impartial, non-partisan national commission to go into the matter of unemployment, now three times as bad as it was in 1930, and then give the government the benefit of its advice. Each time Mr. Mackenzie King has made this proposal it has fallen on deaf ears.

While there is no intention to blame the government for the whole of our economic troubles, the fact remains that some of its policies have made them considerably worse than they need have been. It can not escape responsibility for this, and it will get deeper into debt with the public if it persists in drifting along in the hope that something will turn up.

One of the things Mr. Bennett said three years ago he would avoid at all costs was the debt. We have the debt with us in its worst possible form. For all the money which has been expended in relief there is very little to show.

WANTED—A TORY MARTYR

Let us consider the political case of Attorney-General Pooley, who recently made a characteristic speech in support of the Tolmie government in which he brandished his trusty bludgeon in many directions. Mr. Pooley is a life-long Conservative, in fact the Conservative vintage in him probably runs back for centuries in undiluted quality. For the first time since the Conservative party has been a factor in provincial politics he is running under another flag, decorated with a design so obscure and indistinct that he probably would not recognize it if he saw it anywhere else. But it happens to be the flag his leader has chosen and he has adopted it, meanwhile having carefully folded up the true blue ensign of his political faith and put it in the closet. The colors he has felt it incumbent upon him to fly are upside down, and may be regarded as the insignia of certain defeat, but, in any case, the Attorney-General is not deserting the ship which set out so bravely five years ago and is now inevitably doomed. He has not become a privateer flying the skull and cross bones.

The Attorney-General was confronted with a distracting alternative. He had to choose between playing the game with his leader and sticking to the Conservative party. He chose the first course, and thereby became an unwilling confederate in the destruction of the Conservative party in British Columbia. His choice did credit to his heart, but not to his head, for it was more important that somebody should have kept the flag of the historic Tory party flying at the masthead—if he had to do it alone—than that the party should disappear altogether. The government is destined to defeat in any case, and Mr. Pooley will go down with it, but it is impossible for even those who are not Conservatives to contemplate the utter wreck of a venerable political institution, reactionary and moth-eaten though it was, without a certain vagrant pang of regret.

Our local Historical Society frequently erects monuments on our ancient physical landmarks, our old schools, public buildings and the places where our explorers and pioneers first trod. There appears to be nothing to remind us of the historic Conservative party. The provincial Conservative Association, the Victoria Conservative Association, the government which was elected as Conservative and now calls itself something else, and the independents who are afraid to face the electorate as Conservatives, have run away from their party. Even The Colonist is compromising with its ancient political faith by giving a left-handed support to the government unionists, but these qualified and unqualified, direct and implied, repudiations of the Conservative party are not as impressive as the spectacle of Hon. R. H. Pooley running as anything but a Conservative in an election in this province.

How can all this apostasy be purged? How many pilgrimages to the party Mecca will be necessary; how many scourgings will be called for at the party Canosa before the accusing, accumulated ghosts of centuries will be laid? How many fatted calves will have to be slaughtered before the prodigal will be again admitted into the family party circle? Think of the thousands who, after the next election, will be kneeling before the party penitential bench in sack-cloth and ashes crying, "Unclean, unclean; I was a unionist," or "I was an independent."

Think of the countless number of ancestors who must now be turning in their "narrow cells." Is there no valiant soul ready to step into the breach vacated by Mr. Pooley and by his martyrdom preserve the tenuous thread of Conservative tradition in British Columbia? Is there no Arnold Winkelried willing to gather the spear points of his enemies into his capacious abdomen for the sacred and neglected cause of Toryism? Come forth, O Joshua, and be the monk Telemachus of this political generation, and British Columbia Toryism will preserve in its calendar for countless generations the sacred day of St. Joshua!

A FINE SPORTSMAN

Although he was a comparatively recent arrival in Victoria, Major W. C. Angus, who died in Vancouver last Friday, made a host of friends in the city and district who will deeply regret his passing. He had many excellent personal qualities and a business record in the province which marked his ability and sterling integrity. Major Angus took a lively interest in the commercial activities of the community, while his enthusiasm as a sportsman secured his place in the esteem of a very wide circle.

Beginning his military career in the British Army as a youth, he rose to the rank of major and served with the Imperials in the Great War, was mentioned in dispatches several times, and was decorated. It was only natural, therefore, when he came to Canada that he should take a keen interest in the fortunes of all army veterans. He was president of the Kamloops branch of the Canadian Legion for several years and he never lost touch with the work of the organization as a whole. Men of the type of Major Angus can ill be spared and the deepest sympathy will be extended to his widow and daughter.

THE COLORS OF THE SKY

"Watch the sky if you wish to know in the primitive and uncompromising state the colors that enrich the earth. Between dawn and sunset we may observe them all. The clouds harbor some of them, and in the pools of infinite depth at the back of the clouds are others."

The foregoing is from The Liverpool Post, which adds: "What ineffable browns and greens and blues they are, these that Nature, the supreme artist, has painted in heaven and upon the earth! The lesser artist, man, tries vainly to copy them. It is only in the open air, however, that they come to life, among elemental things where, as Alice Meynell wrote, 'the color of life is in perfection—in the open air, clothed with the sun, whether the sunshine be golden and direct, or dazzling diffused in grey.'"

"To those who properly appreciate Nature's largesse of color it is merely amusing to have a favorite red or blue or green. The same ingredients that are made from soil and rain, air and sun, 'somewhere in the dark habitation of the roots and the airy galleries of the leaves,' drape one petal with red and another with blue."

"The colors of the sky are born from the same pigments, so that serious favoritism is really futile. We can but say, as some do, that brown is the most satisfying, being the deep, fertile tint of earth itself; or that green is to be treasured, because it is the emblem of rest and fresh hope."

"Silver, mauve, rose, and lilac—these and many another shade have their admirers, but the grateful-hearted who draw color into their being as they imbibe good air and sunlight think the very least of them more marvelous in its utter simplicity and spontaneity than the most complicated mechanism that the cunning of man has ever invented throughout his conquest of the universe."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

LIKE THEM HARMLESS
The St. Thomas Times-Journal

Out west a few weeks ago, Mr. Mackenzie King said he would never assume office if a third party had control of Parliament. At a liberal summer school on Tuesday he said he thought additional parties were a benefit to the House. So long as the opposition is harmless a politician doesn't mind it being there.

AND THEIR VICTIMS?
The Toronto Star

The Ottawa Journal is becoming almost hysterical over the good times everybody is having at Kingston pen. "Not a prisoner is in the convict cells," it says. "Every man is at work. They laugh and cheer at their games. Let's forget about the penitentiaries for a little while." The trouble is that people forget about them too long. They are not now going to be lulled into a further period of forgetfulness by any laugh-at-the-games euphoria.

The Toronto Globe
Now that there has been "laughter and cheers" and ripe tomatoes, The Ottawa Journal thinks it a good time to drop the penitentiary controversy. The brutality and cruelty are not reserved, however, for special publicity, and these are what concern the people of the country.

A THOUGHT

We walk by faith, not by sight.—II Corinthians v. 7.
Strike from mankind the principle of faith, and men would have no more history than a flock of sheep.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Loose Ends

At least they have apples and bonfires up in the Okanagan—in England they debunk poor old Edward—the atom turns out to be a total loss—the universe is still safe—and my Orange Pippins lie mangled on the ground.

By H. B. W.

IN THE NIGHT

ALL THIS excitement in the Okanagan, the halting of apple shipments by grim crowds, the bonfires blazing on the streets of Kelowna all night while determined men stand about to see that no fruit is sold below a fixed price—it is all very dangerous and alarming. It is wrong to enjoy it. Yet there is something wholly delightful in that spectacle, especially of Tom Norris, K.C., the fruit men's young lawyer, dashing through the night to rouse a judge out of bed and secure an injunction and more especially as my old friend, Tom, is getting a little large about the middle for dashing through the night.

I mean, it is so unlike those quiet, easy-going fellows in the Okanagan, who like to stop fruit growing at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and play tennis and have a spot of tea and all that sort of thing. It makes you realize, and not without a guilty satisfaction, that under the dull, regimented exterior of the civilized man there still beats the rebel heart of his feral.

And besides, with most of us the depression is a vague, intangible thing, a sort of black cloud that we can't get hold of in our hands, can't understand, can't do anything about. Before it we are helpless, uttering economic platitudes and the incantations of African savages, chattering in terror about inflation and deflation and gold standards without any notion what they mean. But up in the Okanagan the depression is reduced to something concrete that they can get hold of. It is reduced to apples. And fellow can understand the depression in those terms. It gives them something tangible to struggle for, to stand all night around a bonfire for, to dash through the darkness like Paul Revere for an injunction.

I envy the Okanagan people their apples and their bonfires. They are the only understandable things in this entire chaos. Up there at least you can light a bonfire and dash through the night. In civilized communities you can only read the stock quotations, the platforms of political parties and the eminent economists' denials of what they said yesterday.

ANCESTORS

IN ENGLAND they are still merrily debunking the old legend of Norman blood, the proud ancestral claims of the best families, and when they start a thing like that over there, they make a complete and perfect job of it. One eminent authority has reduced the glamor of noble descent down to these crude mathematical terms: "The fact that each of us is the offspring of two parents results in this: that if you go back to the time of the Norman Conquest, each of us now living had more than 60,000,000 ancestors. But in the England of that time there was a population of only 2,000,000. If we assume a fluid marriage market, then each of us living would be descended from each of the 2,000,000 people of the time of the Conqueror by thirty different pedigrees." Apparently, therefore, Norman blood is no particular distinction. And Dean Inge calculates that besides himself there are 60,000 other direct descendants of Edward III in England.

Probably all this de-bunking is just as well, and will persuade people not to look back too far into their ancestry. If the proud descendants of Edward III, for example, could see that gentleman as he probably was, eating his peas with his knife, seldom taking a bath and more ignorant than a West Coast Indian, they might not talk about their noble ancestor so enthusiastically. You would probably find 60,000 Englishmen denying they were descended from the fellow.

Rather more important is not our opinion of antiquity, but posterity's opinion of us. How many people 200 years hence will be proudly proclaiming that they descended from us, from the generation which has the technical skill and knowledge denied to the gods, but apparently little more intelligence than poor unbalanced Edward? Somehow I feel we won't rank very high as ancestors.

LOST HOPE

THEY HAVE also de-bunked the atom over there. The 'atom' is a more serious loss than the legend of Norman blood, but we all counted so heavily on the atom. Science was sure that if it could only unlock the atom and free its remarkable energy, there would be enough force in a cup of water to blow all life off the planet with high-powered shells. Science had great hopes of the atom.

Why, it was not satisfied because the atom would blow all life off this planet. It felt confident that if the energy which held one atom together were freed, the next atom to it would blow up and so on, until not only the earth, but all matter in the universe would explode precisely like a train of gunpowder. Science was extremely hopeful of this splendid result and worked hard at the atom. It expected the explosion might start in some laboratory at any moment.

Also, all these hopes are found to be vain. An eminent scientific gent tells the British Association that the atom is a total loss. It takes more energy to break it up than it is worth. And when you break it up under terrific onslaughts of electricity, what does the next atom do? Does it dissolve in tears in sympathy with its neighbor? Not it. Your neighboring atom witnesses the ruin of his brother without emotion, without stirring to help him. There is no esprit de corps among atoms, no racial pride, none of that Victorian spirit which holds communities like ours together. If you want to break up the next atom, there is no use appealing to it on grounds of loyalty and honor. You have to shoot millions of volts of electricity into it, and it hardly seems worth the trouble.

Science is about ready to leave the atoms to their own selfish devices. Science is about ready to confess broken-heartedly that the universe will have to go on existing for a long time yet. And after all these splendid efforts to blow it up, too.

WIND

WHAT IS a gale of wind to you? You heard it the other night in your luxurious home in the great city over the hill. It came and went and went to sleep again—to you a few noisy gusts down the street. To us a major disaster.

For the last four months I have been watching my Orange Pippins apples growing fat and round, glowing with that peculiar bronze glow which you will find nowhere in nature but on an Orange Pippin in the last days of September. And today the sun was breeding that ambrosial yet vigorous and manly flavor, that smoky penetrating taste that is so much deeper than the shallow flavor of your Early Transparents or the mere liquid lusciousness of your Gravensteins.

How I have sprayed that tree against all manner of pests! How I have propped up its heavy-burdened limbs to keep them from breaking under their load of fruit! How I have rearranged the props every day and gloated over the growing size of the apples, the glowing bronze richness of them, the prospective gorgings around the fire on winter evenings!

Then came the wind to which you paid no attention, and in the morning my Orange Pippins lay on the cold ground, hard ripe, hurried to the earth in the bloom of their first youth, bruised and battered and mangled—weeks of my work wasted, a year's hard struggle by that noble tree utterly gone and now I shall have to assist all winter on Macintosh Reds and other inferior varieties from the Okanagan—good enough for you in the city, who have known no better, but mere apples compared with my lost Orange Pippins. And when I got to town on the morning of the disaster, the girl in the front office (such a nice girl) said: "I like this wind for a change, don't you? So freshening, don't you think?" I muttered something and climbed into the elevator. Poor girl, she has not tasted life yet.

Building activity in Czechoslovakia last year was greater than in 1932.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

YOUR THOUGHTS

Think of the loveliest thing you know. Clasp it and keep it to you. Through your thoughts it grows. In your heart sings: Lovelier than will your whole life grow. Think of the kindest, bravest deed ever a man did for one in need; Facing blame boldly, Craigdarroch, While the world coldly Judged him, and failed all his greatness to heed. Though you are mocked at and misunderstood, Fear not the mob and its cynical mood; Would you gain gladness? Keep your thoughts brimming with beauty and good!

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times
October 2, 1908
From The Times Files

At an early hour this morning Mrs. Joan Dunsmuir passed away at her residence on Fort Street, Craigdarroch, better known locally as Dunsmuir's Castle.

For thirty-two years past the Sisters of St. Ann have been carrying on a splendid work at St. Joseph's Hospital. Three times the original building has had to be enlarged, and the good sisters are on the eve of opening the latest addition, a building thoroughly modern in its respects, and of which they have good reason to feel proud.

The steamer Humboldt was this morning towed into Esquimalt harbor by the steamer Salvor after having laid up all night at Cormorant Bay. She is now lying alongside the Salvor at Bullen's wharf.

Rear Admiral Kingsmill, who is in charge of the Dominion government cruisers and life-saving stations, left Victoria for Vancouver yesterday, en route for the east. Before leaving the admiral went up to Alberni overland, and was met by the motor lifeboat, going down the Alberni Canal as far as Banfield Creek, where he inspected all the stations.

JOHNNY'S THANKS

To the Editor:—I wish to thank the members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, the Canadian Scottish Band, Violet Powkes Dancing School, Imperial Male Quartette, the Russian Ballet School, the Florence Russian Dancing School, the Victoria Operatic Society, the Victoria Little Theatre Association, and those individual artists who appeared in the benefit concert last week. I should like to have thanked each one personally, but at present I am unable to do so.

I also wish to thank both The Victoria Daily Times and The Victoria Daily Colonist for their wonderful efforts in assisting to make this concert so successful.

THE PRESENT CRISIS

To the Editor:—It cannot be conceivable that there ever was a time in the history of this province, or a decision to be made, fraught with so much importance to us and to our children, as that which will confront us in the approaching provincial election.

Russell Lowell declares in his "Present Crisis" that "Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide. In the strife of truth with falsehood, for the good or evil side." Such a moment confronts the people of British Columbia to-day, and it behooves them to select men of sterling character, and steadfast purpose, untrammelled by the old party Shibboleths, the trumpeters of which have been largely responsible for the dire straits in which so many of our people find themselves to-day.

Men of independent mind, of record without reproach; men may I suggest such as former Mayor Hayward, who I am pleased to see, is claiming his independence, and Alderman R. T. Williams, who may always be counted upon to sympathize and render practical assistance to those who appear powerless to assist themselves. If ever there was a time when none

A SUFFERING CITIZEN.

THE C.C.F.

To the Editor:—The information in one of your news columns on September 29 that Attorney-General Pooley was using the secret service to lay bare the nefarious machinations of the C.C.F. leaders was a welcome indication that the government is becoming alive to the serious situation which exists in this province. It must now be apparent to all thoughtful people that unless prompt and effective measures are taken there is likely to be a sharp swing to the left in the coming provincial election. In the present state of mind of the electorate reasoned appeals are likely to have little effect and other methods must be brought into play if a catastrophe is to be averted. Unfortunately an open of the uniformed police is likely to have an adverse effect on public opinion. It is to be hoped, however, that Attorney-General Pooley will continue to make every possible use of secret service in his endeavor to see a decisive result. Unless some course as this is followed, constitutional liberty in British Columbia, shortly be a thing of the past.

CHARLES SHERRINGTON
North Saanich, Sept. 30.

C.C.F. AND SOCIALISM

To the Editor:—At a meeting of C.C.F. at the Gorge on September 29, Mr. Sheppard said that certain persons who had written letters to press "were laboring under misconceptions."

CONCERT WILL AID SOLARIUM

Well-known Artists Plan Recital For October 16 at Shrine Hall

Many interesting musical events are on the taps for the present month, one of the outstanding being the concert to be given in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium at the Shrine auditorium on Monday evening, October 16, at 8.30 o'clock. The artists will include Mrs. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, soprano; Miss Marguerite Devlin, pianiste; Synth Humphries, violinist; and Hugh Brink, baritone, all of whom are well known to local concert-goers.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ferdinand Johnson, the Mayor and Mrs. David Leeming, Lady Barnard, Miss Agnew and Mr. W. B. Langman are patrons of the affair. As the proceeds will be devoted entirely to the funds of the Solarium, it is anticipated that there will be a big demand for tickets, which may be obtained at Fletcher Bros.

Chapter to Hold
Bridge Party

Final arrangements for the bridge tea to be held at Spencer's dining-room on Tuesday, October 10, will be made at the chapter meeting to be held in the Municipal Chapter headquarters, 302 Union Building, on Thursday, at 2.30 p.m.

Many reservations have been made for tables, including the following: Mrs. C. T. Teasdale, Mrs. W. Barrowclough, Mrs. Frank Richardson, Mrs. James Shaw, Mrs. A. M. Boyd, Mrs. F. G. Berton, Miss E. B. Hill, Mrs. A. F. Anthony, Mrs. W. Goepel, Mrs. Walter Walker, Mrs. Hugh P. Bullen, Miss Ogier, Miss McMullin, Mrs. Austin Gale, Miss Gull, Mrs. E. G. Hunter, Mrs. T. R. Myers, Mrs. S. Waller, Mrs. DeTraf-ford, Mrs. G. C. Pinhorn, Mrs. H. L. Wilson, Mrs. T. B. Monk, Mrs. Matheson, Mrs. Colin Cummins. Individual players include Mrs. A. S. Christie, Mrs. W. Williams, Mrs. T. Grant and Mrs. W. N. Gunning. An arrangement is being made to have a table at her own home with Mrs. J. W. Pattinson, Mrs. E. C. Hart and Mrs. J. Collinson.

The convener, Mrs. James Shaw, expects to be glad to receive further reservations. Players are asked to bring their own cards and score cards, and to be ready to start play at 2.30 p.m. Tea, roasts will be welcomed after 4 o'clock. Attractive prizes will be given for contract or auction bridge. Mrs. W. Barrowclough will be in charge of arrangements of the card tables.

Nearly 2,200 miles of railway lines in Switzerland have been electrified.

Trade between Portugal and her African colonies is increasing this year.

Island Arts and Crafts Annual Exhibit Shortly

The Island Arts and Crafts Society will hold its annual exhibition of original work at Belmont House from Tuesday, October 24, to Saturday, November 4, from midday to 6 p.m. daily. Members must submit their exhibits by Tuesday, October 17, delivered unpacked at Belmont House. Each member exhibitor is limited to four works in each class, viz., oils, water colors, drawings, and pastels, black and white, or specimens of any kind of craft other than photography. Non-members are limited to two works in each class. All pictures must be framed and must be fitted with screw eyes and wire ready for hanging. No work shown at a previous exhibition of the society will be accepted.

All work sent in will be subject to a committee of selection, and no picture will be hung that arrives after the above date.

Work of artists from any point will be welcomed.

Members of the Schubert Club are enthusiastically at work preparing the spirituals contained in "The Green Pastures," the negro miracle play which they are presenting at the Shrine auditorium, assisted by Dr. Harry Johns, on November 28. The club is pleased to announce that Bertram W. James, of the Repertory Theatre, Seattle, has consented to act as reader for the production. Mr. James is well known throughout the northwest for his many radio productions, as well as for his excellent work at the Repertory Theatre. He is particularly interested in negro plays and has presented "The Green Pastures" several times most successfully.

Nowhere are spirituals heard to such advantage as they are in this play which has for its theme the progress of God's career. Commencing with a glimpse of that first shiny heaven full of His angels, all sinless and happy, enjoying singing and innocent pleasures; through the creation of man, and who gives him a heap of trouble, and on after the sight of man's suffering to the thought that He must save the world by some suffering of His own. Such spirituals as "Didn't It Rain," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and "Swing Low, Swing Low," take on a new significance when heard against such a fitting background.

Lake Hill W.L.—The monthly meeting of the Lake Hill Women's Institute will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the community hall.

Consumption of electricity is showing a marked increase in Italy.

GIVING CHARITY
CONCERT FRIDAY

On Friday evening next at the Shrine auditorium Len Wagstaffe and Zoe Mink will give a concert for the benefit of the charity programme. This popular couple are featuring their celebrated "Dream Waltz."

The entire proceeds of this concert are to assist a widow left with two young children, and it is hoped the curtain will rise at 8.30 o'clock on a capacity house.

Subscriptions from sympathizers unable to attend the concert would be received by Mrs. W. B. McMicking, 61 Howe Street, who will be glad to furnish any particulars regarding this very distressing case.

Two pianists of exceptional merit will also appear on this programme. They are Miss Isabelle Pike, recently returned from her studies in New York, and Billy Inglis, who has won acclaim on the local concert platform. Miss Pike's recital will be heard in the evening first, T. A. Spruston; second, J. P. Patterson.

Mrs. E. R. Cull entertained at the tea hour Thursday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. A. P. McBride of Butte, Montana.

A Dunne of Vancouver is visiting his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cull have returned to Victoria after spending a few days with Mr. Cull's parents.

GET ACQUAINTED WITH UNUSUAL
FRUITS

By SISTER MARY

The modern methods of transportation and distribution are bringing us unusual fresh fruits to our markets in great abundance. Foods which have long been considered as delicacies distinctly characteristic of the localities in which they were produced are now offered in every market. If you will learn to know and use these fruits you can serve delightfully novel dishes to your family and guests.

Not many years ago the avocado was associated exclusively with Florida and California and available only at certain seasons even in the large city markets. Now it is obtainable practically year round in most markets. Known as the alligator pear, vegetable butter, Midshipman's butter and butter pear, it varies decidedly in size, shape and color, inasmuch as there are over two hundred varieties grown. We use avocados in salads, appetizers and sandwiches with huge success.

BEWARE IF THE THORNS

The prickly pear is less common than the alligator pear and is not adapted to a menu. However, the luscious orange-colored pulp is served fresh or made into delectable jelly. Beware of the tiny thorns that grow in dark wart like spots on its brightly colored peel. These little thorns prick and burn much like nettles if you get them in your fingers.

There are two new varieties of oranges rapidly becoming popular. The King (or King of Siam) has a thick rough skin sometimes quite green in color. It is very large and noticeable flat on top and bottom. Although very juicy it peels easily and it is at its best in the winter and early spring.

The Temple orange has a thin, smooth bright-colored skin and is a cross between the orange and the tangerine. It also peels easily and tastes like the tangerine, but is firm in texture and juicy like the orange.

Another citrus fruit called the tangelo is a cross between a grape fruit and a tangerine. It is much larger and lighter in color than a tangerine but is eaten like a grape fruit with the quality of being squishy.

PERSEMONS POPULAR

The Japanese persimmon is another fruit of increasing popularity. It is in season from late summer until December and is a variety of Oriental persimmon. Large and a dark brown color, with several seeds, it is usually eaten fresh like an apple or with a spoon depending on the firmness of the fruit. Served with sugar and cream it makes an excellent breakfast fruit or a dessert.

The pomegranate is one of the most decorative of fruits, with its leathery skin, vividly colored, purple, orange, red or yellow. It is eaten raw and its pulp is often used as a garnish. Grenadine syrup is made from pomegranates.

To-morrow's Menu

Breakfast — Chilled melon, cereal, milk, cranberry, bran and raisin muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon — Tomato and macaroni Neapolitan, toasted muffins, head lettuce with French dressing, milk, tea.

Dinner — Flank corned beef hash, stuffed peppers, curly endive with bacon dressing, Japanese persimmons with sugar and cream, milk, coffee.

Farmers in Yugoslavia now feel that they are immune by law from debt.

Czechoslovakia has placed a tax on all electric lamps.

Industrial production in France has risen regularly this year.

More than 9,400,000 insured persons are employed in Great Britain.

Oil production in Prussia now averages about 125,000 barrels a month.

MARRIED AT
KNOX CHURCH

Miss Verna Foubister Becomes Bride of Wm.
Charles Cooper

On Saturday evening before a large congregation the wedding was performed at the Knox Presbyterian Church of Verna Foubister, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Foubister of this city, and William Charles Cooper, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cooper, Ottawa. The church was beautifully decorated in the flowers and greenery by friends of the bride. During the ceremony the young couple stood beneath a dainty white floral arch. Rev. J. S. Patterson officiated at the service. Mr. Hughes presided at the organ. During the signing of the register Miss Miriam Williams sang very sweetly "O Promise Me."

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and looked very charming in her floor-length frock of white point d'esprit, made with a ruffled skirt and a tiny jacket with ruffled puffed sleeves and finished at the waist with a sash of white satin. Her veil, of embroidered tulle, was worn with a wreath of orange blossoms and pearls and formed a train reaching to the floor. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, pink carnations and swansons.

Her only bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Ina Foubister, in a frock of pale blue point d'esprit tied with a pink sash, made with a ruffled skirt and shoulder cape. She wore a small white hat of silk crepe and carried a bouquet of cream gladioli, pink carnations and fern.

Mr. William V. Putnam supported the groom and the ushers were Mr. Stanley R. Foubister and Mr. William H. Sluggett.

RECEPTION HELD

After the service an enjoyable reception was held at the K. of C. Hall which was gay with flowers and festoons. A three-tiered wedding cake centred a table and was cut by the bride. An appropriate toast was proposed by Mr. Archer to which the groom ably responded. The happy couple were much admired by all present. Dancing was enjoyed by the guests, after which they adjourned to the dining-room. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and ferns. The bride and groom's place at the table was designated by a set of candles and small miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left on the mid-night train for Vancouver where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their home in Victoria. For traveling the bride chose a becoming suit of navy blue, trimmed with red fox fur, and a hat to match, with wide corded ribbon in shades of navy and beige.

Among the many useful gifts were a tray of silver from the bride's former employers at the Victoria Steam Laundry, a silver cake plate from the members of the Victoria Girls' Band, and a silver sandwich plate from the Crystal Garden Swimming Club, of which both the bride and groom are members.

CUT WAGES IN BEAUTY PARLORS

Canadian Press
Regina, Oct. 2. — Both minimum wages and hours for beauty parlor and barber shop female workers in Saskatchewan have been cut by a new order of the Minimum Wage Board, which comes into effect November 1. Average minimum wage allowed under the new order is about $1 a week less than the present scale, while working hours have been cut down from 50 to 48.

The Shining Talent

By ELEANOR EARLY

(Copyright, 1929, by NEA Service Inc.)

She would be a hermit—that was what she'd be! She'd show Jack Wells how little she cared for adulation. Excitement. Crowds. Praise. That was what he said. He said she ate their up. She'd show him!

And then, some day, the time might come when he would want to marry her. When he would want anything in the world to have her. And then—she'd let him come crawling on his knees. That was what she'd do! She would scorn him, as he had scorned her.

"Oh, God, I love him! I love him! Jack! Jack! Why did you leave me dear!"

For weeks Molly avoided Bob and Red. She changed her mind about sub-letting the apartment, and taking a place in the country. She even changed her mind about being a hermit. She would be a hermit, she decided. She'd let him come crawling on his knees. That was what she'd do! She would scorn him, as he had scorned her.

"Oh, God, I love him! I love him! Jack! Jack! Why did you leave me dear!"

For weeks Molly avoided Bob and Red. She changed her mind about sub-letting the apartment, and taking a place in the country. She even changed her mind about being a hermit. She would be a hermit, she decided. She'd let him come crawling on his knees. That was what she'd do! She would scorn him, as he had scorned her.

"Oh, God, I love him! I love him! Jack! Jack! Why did you leave me dear!"

Red was not a very tactful person. He had, moreover, a rather disconcerting way of coming bluntly to the point. "What are you doing?" he asked. "Writing an anthology of tragic loves," she told him. "What for?" "Because I want to." "Good enough," he conceded. "Speaking of love, do you mind if I ask a personal question, Molly? You won't get sore?" "I might. But go ahead. What difference does it make?" "Well," he said, "I wouldn't want to hurt your feelings. It's about Jack Wells."

Molly felt suddenly strange. She had felt that way twice before. Once when Rita died. And again when the censors attacked her play. She was afraid that she was going to faint.

"What is it?" she asked, and her voice sounded faint to her, and far away, and it kept on ringing in her ears, long after the words were out of her mouth.

"You're not exactly engaged to him now, are you?"

"What is it Red?" she cried. "What has happened?"

"Oh, nothing," he said. "I didn't mean to frighten you, old thing. But—well, you remember of writing me about the woman he took to 'Sacrifice'?"

"Mrs. Butler-Eaton. Well, she's crazy about him, they say. She's worth millions."

"She's sending him to Italy, to study Italian architecture. The office got a tip on it this afternoon. They wanted me to go over and talk with Wells. But I said I knew him, and couldn't very well."

"Town Topics had a paragraph about them last week. Wells had a birthday recently, didn't he?"

Molly nodded. Last year she had sent him a box of surprise gifts. It was more fun to get a present like that. Everything done up separately, and tied with ribbons. Neckties, and cuff links, and a pipe. Stationery with his name on it, and a stunning tobacco pouch. Books, and some candy she made herself.

"Yes," she said. "I didn't send him anything this year."

"Well, Mrs. Butler-Eaton did," he declared. "A Rolls-Royce. She had it delivered at his office. They say he refused to accept it. And that it's in her garage. Well, she's just the same. She registered it in his name."

"How... how... awfully generous!" faltered Molly.

"Generous?" snorted Red. "Diagnosing," he calls it. And now she's sending him to Italy."

"She's told her friends he's going to build her an Italian palace, when he gets back. He's to pick up a flock of things over there to furnish it with. Antiques, and brocade, and what-not. And statues for her Italian garden. Can you beat it, Molly? I'll bet that bird has an expense account of $100,000!"

"He'll spend it wisely," defended Molly loyally. "And I'll bet he'll build her the best dacha in America!"

"Well, there's no fool like an old fool," observed Red sententiously. "On Bull's widow must be near sixty."

"Oh, I don't believe she's really in love with Jack," protested Molly. "Maybe she loves him like a mother."

"Like fun she does."

"Well, anyhow, I'm sure he's not in love with her! Why, it's dreadful, Red, to talk as if Jack were a squaw man!"

Uncle Wiggily And Johnnie's Secret

(By HOWARD E. GARIS)

One day when Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel, had scrambled down the tree in which, high up, was his home nest, he chattered to his brother Billie: "I have a secret you don't know!"

"You have not!" answered Billie, not meaning to be impolite in speaking that way, but just because he was in a hurry.

Both squirrel boys were on their way to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump school. Johnnie laughed when his brother skipped along beside him and said again:

"I have a secret you don't know!"

"No," Johnnie replied. "I told you it wouldn't be a secret any more. But if you guess it I'll tell you whether you're right. I have a secret you don't know!" and he pranced around singing this little verse until Billie was as excited he didn't quite know whether he was standing on his head or his tail.

"Can you guess my secret?" Billie said after a while.

"What is it?" asked Johnnie.

"You know where there are a lot of nice sweet nuts that we can eat. That's your secret," chattered Billie.

"No, it isn't," answered Johnnie.

"Though I wish I did know where there were some nuts. Maybe Uncle Wiggily will tell us, after school, where we can find some. But that isn't my secret."

"Then you have a lollipop," said Billie.

"No! Oh, no!" laughed Johnnie. "I wish I did. Guess again."

"You aren't going to school to-day. You and Uncle Wiggily are going off and have an adventure. That's your secret."

I have a secret

"Nopie! Nopie!" chuckled Johnnie. "You can't guess where you've had three turns so I'm not going to tell you. He was scampered to school ahead of his brother, singing, 'I have a secret you don't know! I have a secret you don't know!'"

"Oh, he makes me so nervous!" chattered Billie. "I wish he would tell me his secret. But I know what I can do. I'll find Uncle Wiggily and ask him to help me find out Johnnie's secret."

"You can't go to the hollow stump for Billie to run to the hollow stump where the rabbit gentleman lived. Uncle Wiggily was just going to hop away to look for an adventure when Billie came scrambling up the front steps very fast."

"My goodness, Billie, what's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Is the Fuzzy Fox chasing you?"

"Oh, no, thank you," answered the squirrel boy. "But Johnnie has a secret he won't tell and I want to find out what it is. Will you please help me?"

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily, with a twinkle of his pink nose, "do you call it polite to try to find out the secret of some one else? Maybe Johnnie doesn't want you to know his secret. So it wouldn't be polite for you and me to try to find out his secret any more than you would like him to try to find out your secret."

"Oh, Johnnie doesn't care," said Billie. "He said he would let me guess his secret and if I did he would tell me. I tried three times but I couldn't guess. Maybe you can. There won't be any harm in having you help me guess Johnnie's secret when he told me to try to guess it, will there?"

"Oh, I don't guess," said Mr. Longears. "Let me see, now, what kind of a secret is it?"

"Well," said Billie, with a laugh. "If I knew I could easily guess it, but I don't. All I know is that Johnnie keeps teasing me by saying, over and over, 'I have a secret you don't know! It makes me so nervous.'"

"Well, I'll tell you what we can do. I'll be over at the school this afternoon. When the Lady Mouse Teacher lets you out I'll meet you and we'll try to find out Johnnie's secret. As long as he doesn't mind if we guess it. Run along to school now, and I'll be waiting for you when you come out."

"Hi! Hi!" laughed Johnnie when the rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose. And if the coffee grinder doesn't play football with the can of condensed milk, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie's balloon.

Beatty Would Welcome Settlers

Saskatoon, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Proposal for immigration under which some responsibility for the immigrants would be taken by the district from which they came is worthy of great consideration, in the opinion of R. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Sound settlement of a moderate number of colonists on lands, and under conditions which would assure their success, should not be confused with wholesale dumping of immigrants into Canada, he said.

COLLIERY OWNER DIES UNDER CAR

Estevan, Sask., Oct. 2.—Pinned beneath his right car when the front wheel of the machine hit a culvert and turned over, W. L. Hamilton, owner of the Crescent Collieries, five miles east of here, died near Wapella yesterday from his injuries.

Mr. Hamilton was one of the pioneer mine operators in the Blainey coal fields.

Alberta Girl Dies In Truck Crash

Husker, Alta., Oct. 2.—Margaret Jensen, twenty, of Duck Lake, Alta., was killed yesterday evening when a grain truck, owned and driven by George Kaiser, farmer of the same district, overturned on the Cravling Valley Hill east of here.

Of eleven other passengers in the truck, Mrs. Jensen suffered a fracture of her right arm; Sarah Raemer, fifteen, and John Raemer, twenty, suffered bad bruises and shock.

JOHN McCORMACK'S DAUGHTER A BRIDE

LORD RANFURLY DIES IN LONDON

London, Oct. 2.—Lord Ranfurly, Governor of New Zealand from 1897 to 1904, died suddenly at his home yesterday. He was seventy-seven.

His grandson, Viscount Northland, succeeds to the earldom.

Uchter John Mark Knowles, Fifth Earl of Ranfurly, was born August 14, 1856, at Newmarket, England. He was educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge, became a lord-in-waiting to the Queen in 1895 and two years later was appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief of New Zealand.

Lord Ranfurly was created a Privy Councillor for Ireland in 1905. He was a grand commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, a knight of justice of the order of St. John of Jerusalem in England and an officer of the Legion of Honour of France.

He married in 1880 Hon. Constance Elizabeth Caulfield, daughter of the seventh Viscount Charlemont. There were two daughters and a son. One son, a captain of the Coldstream Guards, was killed in action in 1915.

NUNS VICTIMS OF FOOD POISONING

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Oct. 2 (Canadian Press).—While five other nuns of Rosary convent lay critically ill from ptomaine poisoning, Sister Maria Gabriella was buried Saturday from the convent's little chapel. She died of poisoning believed to have been contracted through eating spoiled fish.

Joseph Benoit, a porter, died from the same cause.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

UNDERNOURISHMENT CLOSELY ALLIED TO RICKETS

The development of the bony system is as much an indication of good nourishment as the addition of weight. The child who is undernourished, who lacks sufficient minerals and vitamins, is liable to develop rickets, a disease which causes the bones to become soft and deformed. The child who is well nourished, on the other hand, has a strong, healthy body.

VITAMIN D IMPORTANT

Not only must minerals be furnished to the system, but there must also be an agent which enables the body to use them profitably. Vitamin D is such an agent, and when the child has sufficient sunlight plus daily doses of cod liver oil all during the colder months, he can make the best possible use of the minerals in the diet. The penalties for insufficient minerals in the diet are delayed dentition, soft and easily decayed teeth, and such obvious bone-deteriorations as bow-legs and knock-knees.

Mrs. W.'s child of fifteen months is showing another symptom, undernourishment. This mother writes: "Please send me your leaflet explaining about cod liver oil and the vitamins. I have a boy of fifteen months old and the mold of his head is sunken. People tell me that he has rickets. Please tell me what you think. He never was a healthy baby. I nursed him ten months and then put him on condensed milk. I could never get him to take much liver oil. He always spit it out. He is a sturdy little fellow, but has a bad case of bowel trouble and just weighs seventeen pounds. Tell me what to feed him."

GIVE HIM FOOD

The sunken fontanel or "soft spot" on the child's head is just one symptom which often denotes undernourishment. The baby's very low weight and his palor confirm the diagnosis of undernourishment.

The child's whole diet demands revision. He needs one quart of fresh, boiled cow's milk a day, as well as eggs or scraped meat. He needs the juice of one orange every day. Each day he should have two feedings of whole grain cereals, such as whole wheat or oatmeal or whole barley. These are the prepared cereals rich in minerals and vitamins which need no cooking. The child's whole diet should be just for children. Inquire of your druggist about them.

One feeding of sieved vegetables daily, bread and butter, and cooked fruit sauce comprise the rest of the diet. Have the doctor advise proper dosages of one of the cod liver oil concentrates. This is a serious case of malnutrition which needs the attention of the doctor besides a really conscientious effort on your part to feed the baby properly. The deficient diet has continued too long now.

"SLEEPLESSNESS Made my life a misery"

"Influenza had left me so weak and run down I could neither sleep or eat. In my need I turned to Phosferine and I do believe that this wonderful tonic prevented a complete breakdown of my health. It quickly restored my strength and appetite and now sleep well and feel pleasantly vigorous and active again. I am certainly grateful to Phosferine. I banished that tired feeling and keeps me bright and confident."—Mrs. A. M., 136 Two Hill Road, Bristol

PHOSFERINE is a real health builder. It strengthens worn-out nerves and restores energy to the exhausted system. A safe effective tonic for adults or children.

SCHOOL STUDY OF SOCIALISM

C.C.F. Will Teach Principles in Children's Classes

Under a regime controlled by the C.C.F., school textbooks would be revised to suit the teachings of the movement, physical training and art courses would be developed, and the children generally trained from an early age to socialist theories and ideals. It was revealed during an open discussion at the Vancouver headquarters of the C.C.F. here yesterday.

The subject came up when H. Winch of Vancouver demanded what the movement was going to do for the youth of the province. He declared a specific programme was necessary to lure young people into the party and have them trained into the right way of thinking.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1933

Conflicting planetary influences are in the horoscope today. It is a time for careful astrology. It is a time for careful astrology. It is a time for careful astrology.

There is a fortunate sign for men to seek employment, but women may not be so lucky under this sign. Girls are warned that they should aim at super-efficiency in their work.

Discriminating affection, women, especially those of middle age, may be widely praised as a virtue. It is a virtue.

Land interests come under a planet making for revival of activities in the real estate market.

There is a sign to-day read as indication of a change in the weather. It is a sign to-day read as indication of a change in the weather.

Evening meetings or conferences on the date may be held. It is a promising sign for the future.

The stars now coming under a direction of the stars most promising for the development of aviation. They are routes are seen.

Great Britain is to have much trouble from the weather, which will result in dissatisfaction with policies affecting trade and commerce. It is a promising sign for the future.

Persons whose birthday it is have a sign of a year of promising conditions. They should avoid taking on burdens.

After it had been discovered that the alarm was false and quiet was restored the quintette returned shouting "Extra! Extra! All about the big fire in Vancouver. They drove away an automobile."

Police are looking for them.

What a World of Sorrow Could Be Saved, and How Many Divorces Avoided, if Only Young Married Couples Were Given an Allowance to Tide Them Over the First Difficult Years!

ONE of the problems that perplexes a great many parents is how much help they should give their children toward getting a start in the world. There are two schools of thought on this subject. One contends that it breaks down the morale and weakens youngsters to have any assistance given them, and that when boys and girls finish school they should be chucked out into the world, as a puppy is thrown into the water, to sink or swim, according to their own strength and initiative. This theory is particularly popular with self-made men, who often think that because they had to suffer privations in their youth and to go through a heart-breaking struggle to get a start in the world, their children should also be made to tread the same thorny pathway.

The other school holds out helping hands to its children and tries to save them from some of the hardships that would rob them of their youth and sag their shoulders with cares and anxieties before they are old enough and strong enough to bear them. These generous and tender parents assert that no good purpose is accomplished by forcing young people to go unnecessarily through bitter years of penury and struggle, and that such experiences often warp character more than make it fine, and that, anyway, children have a right to expect their parents to stand in the attitude of a beneficent Providence toward them.

Undoubtedly each side has its points. It is not to be denied that many parents do spoil their children by trying to hold them by the hand through life and by lavishing too much money on them, but it is equally true that many men and women have had their lives blighted by their father's miserliness to them, and by their parents' refusal to help them in their hour of need.

Personally, I have never been able to see how a man who has money can see his children toiling beyond their strength, denied the pleasures of youth, torn with anxiety about making the ends meet, and still withhold from them the help he could so easily give, any more than I can comprehend how a father could sit down to a rich banquet and gorge himself on fine food while his children sit in the corner of a room and gnaw on a dry bone.

When I think of these hard-boiled fathers a picture always comes to me of a woman I knew who inherited a large fortune at her father's death, and who said to me bitterly:

"It comes to me too late to do me any good. Because he was poor when he was a boy, my father believed that I should go through all the hardships of poverty. He never gave me any pretty clothes, or any of the advantages that we could so well have afforded me, and that kept me from going with the other girls of my class and left me out of everything."

"Because I was shabby and lived shabbily I never had a chance of meeting the sort of man I should have married, and I took almost the first chance I had and made a poor choice, as was almost inevitable."

"My husband was nothing of a money-maker, so we were always very poor, and I had to work for my living. My children came fast, poor little things who died almost as soon as they were born. There were years and years in which my life was a nightmare of toil and anxiety—cooking and washing and baby-tending and trying to make $1 do the work of five. Incessant labor broke down my health and made $1 do the work of five. Incessant labor broke down my health and made $1 do the work of five. Incessant labor broke down my health and made $1 do the work of five."

"If my father had given me even a small allowance so that I could have had a servant to do the drudgery for me, it would have saved my own health and my children's lives. If he had given me just a little money, I could have bought happiness with it in my youth, but now that I am old and broken and have ceased to want things, the fortune he has left me is nothing but pieces of paper that are a mockery to me."

We all know plenty of cases like this woman's, where a father wrecks his daughter's life and often actually murders her by withholding from her the help he could so easily give her. And we all know plenty of cases where a fine young boy and girl who love each other are wasting the most beautiful years of their life in the misery of a long engagement, while their romance is being torn to tatters and their wedding cake grows stale, while they wait for the man slowly to work up to the place where he will be making enough to support a family, just because their fathers will not give them the little money it would require to finance love's young dream.

Of course, there must be reason in all things. To give money to encourage a boy in lazy loafing or dissipation is one thing. To give an energetic and ambitious boy the help that will open the door of opportunity to him is another. But it is because having things means so much more to the young than it does to the old, and because a hand-out so often does put a boy in the saddle, that I believe that parents should divide with their children while they are still young and needy.

More than that, it is the parents' duty, for to whom should a child turn in its hour of distress if not to those who brought it into the world, who gave it its heredity, who settled its environment, who shaped its character and who is responsible for it?

Certainly the child has small reason to love and honor the parents whose affection is greater for their pocketbooks than it is for them, and who never loosen their grip on a dollar until their hands relax in death.

Religion of Old Egypt

THE GOD OF THE SUN

"Your drawing is beautiful, oh living Atón, begin of life! When you rise, you fill every land with your beauty."

Glimpse of Karnak temple, with obelisk in background.

their arms to adore you at the dawn, and then in all the world they do their work."

That hymn was composed while Ikhnaton was on the throne of Egypt. This king wanted the people to worship the sun-god under the name of Atón. You will find that in one of this god is addressed as "Ra," and that points to the fact that people do not quickly give up names of former days. "Ra" was used as the name for the sun-god from the beginning of written history in Egypt. Many were the fine things said about him by the priests. In one tale it was declared that Ra had been king of the country, and had gone to the sky when his reign on earth was over.

In a country with such a long history as Egypt, it is little wonder that other names should have been applied to the greatest of all the gods. Next to Ra, the most popular name was Horus, Osiris, another important god of Egypt, was lord of the Underworld. Legend said that he once had ruled over Egypt, and had been a good king. Set was an evil god, and some persons supposed that he ruled over the fortunes of war. It was declared that Set had captured and killed Osiris, cutting his body to pieces. The goddess Isis put the pieces together, and Osiris came back to life; but he could no longer be king of Egypt. After being raised from the dead, Osiris went to rule over the Underworld.

Mighty temples were set up in Egypt as places of worship for the gods and goddesses. The most famous ruins of these are at the village of Karnak, not far from the bank of the Nile river. (For History section of your scrap-book).

NEWS IN BRIEF

Fred M. McGregor and G. H. Stephens were appointed members of a committee to consider raising finances for the Chamber of Commerce, at a directors' luncheon meeting to-day.

The Oak Bay Wanderers Intermediate rugby team will hold a practice at Oak Bay Park this evening, at 7 o'clock. Any players interested have been invited to attend.

A special committee report on certain amendments to the Income Tax Act, as outlined by the Vancouver Board of Trade, was adopted by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

The monthly meeting of the British Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S., will be held to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock. Comrade Percy Fletcher will address the meeting on "What I Saw in Japan." All members are requested to attend.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day passed a standing vote of sympathy for Major W. C. Angus, a member of the chamber who passed away on Friday. A letter of condolence will be forwarded to the widow family.

David Ashwood pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to a charge of stealing a suit of clothes, one pair of shoes, two pairs of socks, a purse and a jacket belonging to Robert Rogers. He was remanded for sentence until to-morrow. The articles were taken from a downtown hotel, according to the police report.

Carl John Martinson of Jordan River, who came here from Norway twenty-seven years ago, to-day appeared in person before Judge Lampman in his application for naturalization as a Canadian citizen. John and his wife, Mrs. Robert G. Martinson, of Jordan River, testified as to his worthiness to become a Canadian.

A committee report on the recent interview with J. P. Babcock, chairman of the international fisheries commission, stating the commission had no powers to lengthen the halibut season, was presented by H. W. Davey to the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day. The directors supported a recommendation that representations be made to the federal government and United States authorities to have the treaty amended to enable the commission's powers and enable it to curtail individual catches.

A vote of thanks to the Victoria Police Department for changing the date of its annual ball from December 1 to December 5, so as not to conflict with the first night performance of "The Mikado," was passed by members of the Victoria Operatic Society at their meeting last week. A letter of thanks from the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment was read, thanking the society for its part in "Let's Go."

Burglars netted between $50 and $60 in two raids on business premises in the city over the week-end. Entrance to the White Lunch was gained some time Saturday night through the back door and between $25 and $30 was missing when the proprietors investigated the theft. Dale's Delicatessen was entered sometime over the week-end, the discovery being made this morning. A skylight was forced by the intruders and about $25 taken.

A. & N. Veterans Hold Successful Concert

The Army and Navy Veterans held a smoking concert Saturday evening. The proceedings opened with a period of silence in memory of Major Angus. Brigadier Sutherland Brown, former officer, commanding Military District No. 11, gave a short talk, in the course of which he commended the Veterans' organizations for their wonderful work and expressed his pleasure that in future the leisure afforded by his retirement would give him the opportunity of taking a greater interest in the organization.

The programme of the concert was as follows: Monologue, Vaughan Barker; piano solos, Walter Gaskitt; songs, Harry Warner; Scotch comedian turn, Joe Dobie; musical act, Frank Merryfield; moving pictures, Harold Palmer; accordion, Frank White; solo, George Gray; tap dancing, Ted Lewis; cornet, J. Mossop.

Purse-snatcher Is Apprehended

A youth who snatched a purse from the hands of Mrs. W. A. Loney, 630 Poul Bay Road, on Saturday afternoon, was apprehended over the week-end by H. Jones, the juvenile officer at police headquarters.

The purse-snatching occurred on Douglas Street, near Herald Street, and the boy was chased by an eye-witness, J. Greenwood, Bank of Toronto Building, but he escaped when his pursuer lost sight of him near the Lemon-Gommon mill. Subsequently the matter was reported to the police, and Constable Jones made an arrest.

A meeting of the Saanich Ward Two Non-political Ratepayers' Association will be held on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Cloverdale School.

Final Tribute To P. W. Dempster

The funeral of Patrick William Dempster, who passed away at his home, 430 Springfield Avenue, on September 27, took place Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the I.O.O.F. Hall. There was an unusually large gathering of relatives and old-time friends, and the many beautiful flowers testified the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Brother Dewar, P.G., acting Noble Grand, and Brother George Arlow, P.G., acting chaplain of Columbia Lodge No. 2, of which lodge Mr. Dempster had been a member, conducted the I.O.O.F. burial service. Brother A. Henderson, P.G.M., delivered the eulogy. The hymns sung were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "The Sands of Time Are Sinking."

Mrs. S. Morton rendered the solo "Sleep on Beloved." E. Holloway accompanying at the piano.

The honorary pallbearers were: Sisters Frances A. Walker and Jennie Grant, representing the Rebekah Assembly; Sisters J. E. Pollard and J. J. Pilgrim, representing Coifax Rebekah Lodge No. 1, and Sisters A. Killam and Eva Doane, representing Carle Rebekah Lodge No. 45; Brother W. H. Cullen, P.G.M., and Brother W. H. Cullen, P.G.M., representing the Grand Lodge. The active pallbearers were: Brothers P. Thompson, W. Farquhar, R. Livingstone, W. J. Gilliland, representing I.O.O.F. R. W. Brother Stuart M. Manue and W. M. C. F. Dawson, representing a Camosun Lodge No. 66, A.P. & A.M. The remains have been forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

NO PRIME HERE CANCEL ASSIZES

Victoria For Last Six Months Better Behaved Than For Over Third of Century

Chief Justice Morrison Arrives to Conduct Assizes But There Is Nothing For Him

Victoria during the last six months has been better behaved than it has been in any similar period in one-third of a century. As a result, the autumn assizes, which were scheduled to open here this week, were called off to-day. Faced with an empty crime sheet, Sheriff H. W. Goggin had no prisoners to bring into court for trial, and cancelled the summoning of lists of jurors.

It is the first time since before 1900 that there have not been any cases held in Victoria each year. The last assize here was last spring, when there was a light list.

"Victoria apparently is getting better and better," said the sheriff, recalling how in years gone by there were long lists of cases facing the court at each of the semi-annual assizes, although the population in the Greater Victoria area was much smaller than now.

"The indication is that the more Victoria grows the better it conducts itself."

It was pointed out this is contrary to most cities, where crime has the habit of increasing at a ratio faster than the population. It was recalled that in the last few days when there was a small population and that when it was half the present size it had more than twice the number of criminal cases each year.

Chief Justice Morrison came over from Vancouver to-day to preside over the court here. After he had been informed there were no criminals to be tried he found all there was for him were some civil applications. The chief justice will remain here for the month of October, presiding over the Supreme Court.

ORGANIZATION IS NECESSARY

Balanced Parties as Essential in Politics as in Business, Says G. S. Pearson

Addresses Large School Liberal Meeting; E. C. Whitney-Griffiths Well Received

Organization in politics is as essential and necessary for success as it is in any other line of human effort, G. S. Pearson, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo-Alberni, told a large audience in Sooke Hall on Saturday evening, while speaking in the interests of C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Liberal nominee for Esquimalt. The meeting was also addressed by Norman W. Whitaker, Saanich candidate, and Mr. Whitney-Griffiths. C. A. Helgeson was the chairman.

Mr. Pearson warned against voting into office a party comprising a membership that was not usually high standing, and which was liable to have its "hands tied" while in office.

The Liberal Party in British Columbia consisted of men of unusually high standing, and of the highest caliber. The speaker pointed out that the few men who had not had the finger of dissent pointed at him, the speaker said.

Conservative promises made by the Conservatives when they went into power in 1928, with those of the preceding Liberal administration, Mr. Pearson stressed, as much as the importance to the public, and promised at the time of the latter's election, had been carried out. The present platform of the Liberal Party dealt with matters of great importance to the public, and were not visionary promises impossible of accomplishment, such as those of the C.C.F. in 1928, when it was a time when the Liberal Party was in power.

He said that the Liberal Party was a party of action, and that it was not a party of words. He said that the Liberal Party was a party of action, and that it was not a party of words.

BIGAMY TRIAL STARTS HERE

Trial of Baboo Singh on a charge of having two living wives started before Judge Lampman to-day. Mrs. Maud Alice Baboo, white, who is the chief witness for the prosecution, claimed that although she had been married to Baboo for a number of years and had never been divorced by him, the Hindu husband had on June 20, 1932, married Mrs. Lou Angelina Jones, colored.

Baboo has been out on $1,000 bail. Stuart Henderson, who has charge of the defence, is expected to open his side of the case to-morrow.

HAD LIVED HERE ALL HER LIFE

Mrs. S. Rowlinson, Native of Saanichton, Passed Away Saturday

Mrs. Eliza Agnes Rowlinson, wife of Seymour Rowlinson, 1442 Hillside Avenue, passed away Saturday in St. Joseph's Hospital, aged sixty-one years. Mrs. Rowlinson was born at Slusgits, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Yeager, and had lived in Saanichton and Victoria all her life. She is survived by her husband, at home; three daughters and one son.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, Rev. F. Weaver officiating. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEW OFFICER TAKES CHARGE

Major-General E. C. Ashton, C.M.G., Arrives in City as M.D. No. 11 Head

Major-General E. C. Ashton, C.M.G., V.D., former officer commanding Military District No. 2, at Toronto, recently transferred to take charge of Military District No. 11, with headquarters here, arrived in the city this morning and immediately proceeded to military headquarters at the Work Point Barracks.

Major Ashton will take over the command to-day from Brigadier W. G. Beaman, D.S.O., who will leave towards the end of the week to be D.O.C. of Military District No. 10, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

Major Ashton will stay at the Empress Hotel here for several days before taking up residence at Work Point Barracks. Mrs. Ashton and his daughter are expected to arrive in the city by the end of the week. They are motoring up from Toronto.

Major Ashton has had a distinguished military career. He first became identified with army life in 1893 when he was appointed provisionally second lieutenant with the old Dufferin Rifles of Canada. An outstanding scholar he was the winner of several scholarships and medals during his scholastic career at Queen's University.

During the World War Major Ashton was in command of the 36th Battalion and later was appointed O.C. of the 15th Canadian Brigade, returning to Canada in 1917 to become adjutant-general. In January, 1930, he was made district officer commanding of M.D. No. 2, with headquarters at Toronto.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

MRS. MARY ANN MALTRAVERS DAVID MELLOR

Mrs. Mary Ann Maltravers, 1593 Plumstead Street, Esquimalt, is celebrating her eighty-third birthday to-day. Mrs. Maltravers was born at Acton, Middlesex, England, on October 2, 1850. She came to Canada in 1891, and has resided in Esquimalt ever since.

David Mellor, popular member of the J.B.A.A., attains his majority to-day. Born at Manchester, England, he came to Victoria about twelve years ago. He is an accomplished pianist and is fond of tennis, golf and badminton. He is employed by the Lemon Gommon Lumber Co. and lives at 2811 Rose Street. He is a member of the Tillamook Club.

POLITICAL MEETINGS

Ward 4 Victoria Liberal Association, will hold a special campaign organization meeting at Liberal headquarters, Government Street, this evening, at 8 o'clock. All members and others willing to help in the coming campaign are invited to attend. Candidates will address the meeting.

To-morrow evening Ward 2 Liberals will hold one of their delightful get-together dances. Zala's orchestra will provide the music, and there will be a tombola. All Liberals are invited.

The Saanich C.C.F. will hold a meeting in Marigold Hall to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, when the speakers will be Robert Connell and the Saanich candidate, W. E. Pierce. The public is invited to attend.

Ward 1 Liberals will hold a dance in the headquarters, corner of Government and Broughton Streets, on Friday evening next. A popular orchestra has been engaged for dancing, from 8.30 to 11.30 o'clock. There will be a tombola during the evening.

Premier Tominie will address three Unionist meetings in Saanich this week. With Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C., and Hon. William Savage, he will speak in Ward 5, at the Women's Institute Hall, Royal Oak, at 8 o'clock. An afternoon meeting has been called for 3 o'clock in the Lake Hill Community Hall on Wednesday, where, with Mr. Savage, the Premier will address a women's gathering.

Mr. Tominie will leave Saanich on Wednesday, where, with Mr. Savage, Hon. W. M. Dennis and Mr. Savage.

To Hold Funeral In Vancouver

Major W. C. Angus, manager of the Victoria Phoenix Brewery, who died in Vancouver on Friday, will be buried in the Masonic Cemetery, North Burnaby, to-morrow afternoon.

Services will be conducted in the Nunn and Thompson Funeral Chapel, Vancouver, at 2.30 o'clock, under the auspices of Victoria Lodge No. 94, A.F. and A.M.

SEEKS TO BREAK ASSESSMENT

In an effort to break what he claims is the unduly high level of assessments maintained by City Assessor Okell on Fairfield district residential property, Major W. Taylor, 2239 Oak Bay Avenue, to-day appealed to Judge Lampman's court.

Major Taylor explained he owned the property at 1121 Chapman Street, with a five-roomed cottage on it. He declared this cottage was thirty years or so old. "I do not know the age of it myself, but I have owned it for seventeen years, and it was an old house when I acquired it," he said. "It is on half a lot, and the half lot is assessed by the city at $550. The house is assessed at $1,500, where I can build a new and better one for less than that amount of money. Fully furnished the house lets for $20, and unfurnished for $15 a month. This means it takes four and three-quarter months to pay the city taxes before anything else is paid, which is an absurd proportion. I ask the court to rectify this as the City Hall court of revision denied my appeal."

The court is to set a day, when all aspects of the case will be gone into, with the city represented.

Fine Weather Will Not Last

A storm centre over the Pacific Ocean is moving towards Victoria, and the spell of fine weather Victorians now are enjoying will soon end, F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Gonzales Meteorological Observatory, stated this morning.

D. B. PLUNKETT IS CRITICIZED

Chamber of Commerce Objects to Federal Member's Defiant Attitude

Protest Against Removal of Other Dominion Departments to Vancouver

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day lodged strong protest against removal of any other federal government offices in Victoria as intimated by D. B. Plunkett, M.P., when he appeared before the chamber's special committee to discuss the moving of the Public Works Department office to Vancouver.

A report of the special committee's interview with the federal member was presented by Frank Timmins, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who also presented a resolution from his body advocating the calling of a public indignation meeting by the mayor if further removals were reported.

"When we met Mr. Plunkett he refused to speak until members of both local newspapers were present," said Mr. Timmins. "He claimed there had been certain accusations made against him, which he wished to refute publicly. He was told that it was a private committee meeting but would not say anything and we were forced to admit the press."

NOT CONVERSANT WITH MATTER

"When asked whose building the government was renting in Vancouver, and how much rent was to be paid, Mr. Plunkett did not appear to be very conversant with these matters and said he was satisfied with the more," Mr. Timmins said. "The whole matter appeared to be like a closed book as far as we were concerned and nothing we could have done could have caused a change."

"We didn't like his defiant attitude and the chairman told him so, and I don't see how we could ever accomplish anything with a man like that taking such an attitude," he continued.

"Mr. Plunkett told us that the federal government was already looking over other departments which might be removed and advised us to act now, any sort of protest was to be made to resist further removals."

A motion by Harold Husband that the federal government be asked to reconsider the removal of the public works office and that a protest be lodged against the possible removal of the Marine and other departments, was passed unanimously.

TICKET CASE SENT TO TRIAL

Magistrate Commits E. A. Morris Ltd. and W. Hitchcox on Sweepstakes Charge

Only two police witnesses were called at the preliminary hearing in the City Police Court this morning of E. A. Morris Ltd. and Walter Hitchcox, the managers of "The Store," on a charge of operating a sweepstakes.

Statements obtained from other persons who said they had purchased tickets from the defendants, were produced by C. L. Harrison, the prosecutor. The case was sent to trial by higher court, on election of Fred Elliott, defence counsel, who offered no defence. Sergeant Arthur Bishop described the police visit to the premises at 1116 Government Street, on September 6, and the seizure of seventy-four envelopes containing tickets and a list of names for a ticket earlier in the day and leaving $1. He gave the name of "H. Green, McNeil Street."

After these witnesses testified, Mr. Harrison said a large number of people had been subpoenaed to give evidence on the purchase of tickets, but he had obtained statements from them and would furnish the court with the evidence. "The case will go through the process of calling the witnesses. The defence was agreeable."

New Basketball Rules Speed Up Game and Add Thrills

Players With Speed and Judgment Will Have Advantage

Jack Westrope Is a Good Jockey, but Old-timers Were Better

Calculated to speed up the game and provide more thrills for its followers, revised rules for 1933-34 basketball are creating a lot of interest. None of the new regulations are drastic in their nature, but combined with last year's changes basketball is now dressed in new clothes. The year's innovation open up the game and give the player with speed and judgment the driver's seat. Basketball coaches welcome the new regulations, which prevent stalling under the basket and in offensively laying back when a team is in possession of a comfortable lead.

A perusal of the new rules show that players will now be enabled to make three starts in the game as against two previously. This rule will probably line-up change of hockey a familiar one on the basketball court. No longer will a player on the offensive be able to hold the ball longer than three seconds when under his opponent's basket. Last year's rule allowed him to do this if his back was turned to the basket, but the latest change makes the rule effective no matter which way he may be facing.

The ten-second rule introduced last year to basketball and which proved the most constructive innovation in years has been enlarged somewhat and now reads: "A player in possession of the ball shall not be allowed to hold it for more than ten seconds before he shall pass, shoot or dribble it." The new rule is a definite improvement on the old one, which allowed a player to hold the ball for thirty seconds. The new rule will speed up the game and make it more interesting to the spectators. The new rule will also make it more difficult for a player to stall the game by holding the ball for a long time. The new rule will also make it more difficult for a player to stall the game by holding the ball for a long time.

No longer will players be allowed to even so much as brush against the enemy without having the referee hand out penalties. This change will do more to open up the game than anything else ever devised for basketball, and will enable players to advance against their adversaries on definitely planned manoeuvres and tactics.

Little Jack Westrope received a bit of beating the other day when he guided his 21st birthday winner under the wire in first place. But maybe that does not count.

For sometime it has been the impression that Walter Miller holds the world record for the number of hides piloted home by a single driver. The record was set in 1906 and came right back the next year with 324, setting up an average of approximately a winner a day over a period of two years.

Jockey Westrope still will have to bat a lot of horses on the hip before he can claim peerage with some of the better jockeys of the last thirty-five years. Lester Reiff rode 292 winners back in the year 1896. In 1895 Tommy Burns booted in 274 winners.

Joe Ticken, Japanese bantamweight, has lost more decisions in Los Angeles than he has won but still manages to draw good sized houses. Ticken is a willing performer and always gives the fans a run for their money.

According to Joe Marsh, veteran Seattle sports promoter, who has been intimate with all of the outstanding grapplers during the last twenty-five years, Frank Gotch would have beaten the present day "champions" far easier than he did those of his day.

Washington Only Slight Favorites To Defeat Giants

Betting Odds on American League Champions Take Sudden Drop to 6 to 5

BOTH MANAGERS ARE CONFIDENT

Hubbell Will Be Starting Pitcher For Giants; Tickets Move Slowly

Canadian Press
 New York, Oct. 2.—New York Giants and Washington Senators prepared for a last-minute "fire" drill today before they plunge into the blazing competition of world series combat in the Polo Grounds to-morrow.

An overnight flood of New York money had forced the betting odds, favoring the Senators, down to 6 to 5 from 10 to 7, with prospects of a further shortening to even money, unless stronger support developed for the American League champions.

The Giants' business office announced today reserved seats would be sold separately for either the first or second games. This ruling does not apply to the 4,000 box seats, all of which have been sold, nor the 5,000 bleacher seats which will go on sale the morning of each game.

Washington announced several days ago single game seats would be sold. The only apparent explanation was the advance sale had indicated a strong disinclination of the public's part to put $18.50 on the line for three games. Cronin confident.

The shift in betting odds failed to perturb Joe Cronin, youthful manager of the Washington club. Cronin believes implicitly in the ability of his well-rounded team to "take" the Giants, not in four games as the New York Yankees made a habit of doing, perhaps, but comfortably.

As for Bill Terry, who led the Giants to a smashing and unexpected National League pennant triumph in his first full year as John McGraw's successor, he is conceding the American League is not a single thing so long as Carl Hubbell's left arm is in serviceable condition. He said a week ago Hubbell would pitch the first game, and nothing has occurred since then to make him change his mind.

TIGERS SCORE 21 TO 2 WIN
 Eastern Lacrosse Champs in Easy Victory Over Fort William Pontiacs

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 2.—Speeding westward in quest of the Canadian amateur box lacrosse championship, The Hamilton Tigers paused long enough at Fort William Saturday to administer a decisive 21 to 2 defeat to the Fort William Pontiacs, Thunder Bay district champions.

Pitted against the superlative play of the eastern aces, the lighter lake-head squad was no match for the eastern opposition in any department of the game, but they fought an aggressive and stubborn battle throughout the struggle.

Starting off at a dizzy speed, the Tigers rattled home three goals in the first two minutes of play, and before the first period barrage against the Fort William net was over, ten goals had been registered as against none for the Pontiacs.

The locals rallied in the second and tallied twice before the Tiger onslaught again mowed down the defence for more goals.

Chuck Klein and Jimmy Foxx Win Major Baseball League Championships

Former Has Splendid Mark of .368; Foxx Takes Home Run Hitting Honors

New York, Oct. 2.—Two new major league batting champions were crowned yesterday as the regular 1933 baseball season drew to a close. Chuck Klein of the Phillies and Jimmie Foxx of Philadelphia Athletics stood first in the National and American Leagues, respectively, without a chance of losing their places in the final check of the season's records before the official averages are made public during the winter.

Unofficial records, including yesterday's games, gave Klein a .368 average and Foxx a .356 average. The unofficial records of the leading five batsmen in each major league follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE
 Klein, Philadelphia, .368, 129 runs, 123 runs batted in, 44 doubles, 19 triples, 28 home runs, 134 stolen bases.
AMERICAN LEAGUE
 Foxx, Philadelphia, .356, 140 runs, 159 runs batted in, 44 doubles, 17 triples, 48 home runs, 27 stolen bases.

VICTORIA WINS GOLF TROPHY

Defeats Colwood By Five Points To Regain Biggie Staff Wilson Award

Defeating Colwood golfers yesterday by a margin of nineteen points which added to their twenty-point lead gained in the first half of the match gave them a victory by forty-five points, Victoria Golf Club representatives regained possession of the Biggie Staff Wilson trophy. Colwood won the trophy last year for the first time.

Nelson This Year's Winner of Toronto Swim; Woman Champion Hurt at Start

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Ploughing through fifteen miles of chilly Lake Michigan waters in less than seven and one-half hours, Marvin Nelson, the "Iowa Kid," yesterday added the William Randolph Hearst marathon swim to his previous successes in Toronto marathons.

After the Fort Dodge "seal" winner at Toronto in 1930, and again this year, splashed home a winner by two big miles, George Blagden of Memphis, Tenn., 1931 Toronto victor, game in to take second money. Then came Bill Goll, the singing New Yorker, who was third in the Lake Ontario splash of 1930, second in 1931, fifth in 1932 and again third in this year's race.

First Canadian to finish from out of the field of more than 200 who started at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, was Dan Demetriki, Windsor, Ont. SETS WORLD RECORD.

Iowa's powerful, stroking Nelson carved through the low-temperature water in 7 hours 22 minutes 24 and 3-5 seconds, a world record for the distance. His triumph brought him the $5,000 first prize.

Blagden's splendid effort won him $2,500, with Goll receiving $1,000. Blagden's time was 7 hours 35 minutes 13 seconds. Darkness had settled over the lake when Goll pulled himself out of the water to finish in 8 hours 20 minutes 37 and 2-5 seconds.

Scottish Marksman Captures Shoot-off From Gwen Spencer in Weiler Cup Match

Repeating the performances which won the trophy for him on two previous occasions, Serg. J. H. Regan of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, captured the Weiler Cup outright in the annual competition of the Victoria and District Military Rifle Association, after an exciting shoot-off with Miss Gwen Spencer, Victoria's leading woman shot.

After winning the trophy, Serg. Regan reconquered it for annual competition among members of the association. The match, which was the last of the current shooting season, was one of the most exciting witnessed on the Range for some time. Serg. Regan just managing to nose out Miss Spencer in the shoot-off after they had tied in the last stage.

Vancouver, Oct. 2.—Fred Hume, former leader of the New Westminster Royals, was chosen president of the Pacific Coast Football League at a meeting here over the week-end. Election of other officers will probably take place at another meeting next Friday night.

As an inter-city league, the Coast League will include the Victoria team in its schedule. Each team will play a home and away game with the Islanders, and standings will be computed on a percentage basis.

BALL SERIES IS ALL EVEN

Buffalo Wins Pair of Week-end Games to Tie Up Play-off With Columbus

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 2.—The little world series stood at three games apiece to-day; Buffalo having won a pair of week-end contests from Columbus of the American Association yesterday. The International League champions thumped their opponents by 7 to 4, almost duplicating the 7 to 3 whipping they handed them Saturday.

Charley Perkins, left-handed star of the Bisons, was too much for the Red Birds yesterday, allowing only seven hits and striking out seven, but Buffalo owed many of its runs to the wisdom of Lee, the right-handed pitcher who started for Columbus. He went to the showers in the seventh.

SARNIA PULLS SURPRISE WIN

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Danger signals were out along the whole stretch of the eastern Canadian football front to-day. Except for the berth Sarnia Imperials held in the senior division of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, there seemed to be safety nowhere.

Unsuspected strength showed its head in many places Saturday as every one of the east's senior squads got in their final pre-schedule games, but no exhibition was as impressive as that of the bulky, fiercest Imperials who whipped Montreal's Winged Wheelers to 2 at Hamilton.

Barnes's Splendid Goal Gives Wests Football Victory

Centre-half Scores Two Minutes From Time To Defeat Saanich Thistles 3-2

Equimault Turns Back Victoria City 3 to 1; Several New Players Turn Out

Roy Barnes's rising drive, two minutes from time, that completely fooled Goalie Rowe, and slipped in under the crossbar for the finest goal of the afternoon, gave the Victoria Wests a 3-to-2 victory over the Saanich Thistles, in the second half of the double-header, staged by the Victoria Coast League Football Association at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon. The opening engagement saw Equimault chalk up an expected 3-to-1 win over Victoria City. The games marking the official opening of the schedule were played on a lightning fast pitch and attracted a fair crowd.

For so early in the season the teams in a pair of interesting exhibitions, four clubs trotted out a number of new players, the majority of whom are youngsters who showed up well in senior company. All the teams appear well balanced and by mid-week the clubs should be treating the fans to high calibre soccer.

YOUNG TEAMS

Both the City and Wests fielded what might be termed "kid" teams and the youngsters more than held their own with the veterans. With proper coaching these verdant performers can be developed into good footballers. In former seasons the senior clubs have been lacking in young material.

During the interval between the first and second games the members of the teams, managers, referees and officials of the league gathered in the centre of the playing field and, with the fans, observed two minutes of silence as a tribute to the late Major C. Angus, president of the league, who died in Vancouver on Friday evening. The members of the City team were accompanied by their wives and families.

BARNES STARS

Feature of the Wests' victory was the sterling performance of Barnes at centre half. This youngster, who earned fame for himself on the local baseball diamond this season, was the spearhead of the greenhairs' attack with his brilliant feeding of his forwards, and led their defensive play with his effective breaking up tactics.

THE SCORE

With the opening of the second half the greenhairs put everything into a powerful attack and it was not long before they had scored the first goal.

grave, taking a pass from Robinson, and finding the net. The greenhairs hemmed the Thistles in their own half and Musgrave and Collins brought Rowe to his knees on two occasions. The Thistles tried to break away but their sallies got nowhere against the fine play of the Wests' halves and back.

With time drawing near the Wests pressed around the Saanich goal. Securing the ball outside the penalty line Barnes cut loose with his shot that spelled victory. The Thistles threw caution to the wind and every man went on the attack in an effort to tie the score. Barker missed a great chance when, with a clear goal, he drove a terrific shot right at Stewardson.

MILLER GETS SECOND

Equimault forced a pair of corners but "Scotty" Stewart's crosses were cleared. Miller accounted for Equimault's second goal, securing the ball after a miskick by Moody to slip it into the net from a few feet out. Just before half-time Parquhar dived across his net to block a shot from Worswick, left winger.

Rushing in from out of the blue to secure a loose ball Johnny Viggers crashed the leather past De Costa for the City's only goal shortly after play resumed. The Equimault net had another "goal" when Johnson needed wide on a cross from the wing. John Watt added Equimault's third goal on a low shot that slipped through Parquhar's legs. With three minutes to go Parquhar fumbled a shot from Worswick but recovered brilliantly to clear when charged by Stewart.

SAUNDERS REFERRED

The teams for the first game were: Victoria City—Parquhar; McMillan, Moody, Robertson, Magee, Pepin; A. Murray, Sage, Johnson, Viggers, McLeish, Stewart and Holmes.

TABLE TENNIS LEAGUE OPENS

Eight Teams Usher in Season This Evening; First Half Schedule Announced

Teams in the Victoria Table Tennis League will swing into action this evening with the opening games of the season. The schedule for the first half of the season was announced to-day by Secretary Lionel Cox. It takes the teams up to December 18, when play will be suspended over the holidays and resumed in the New Year.

HIS RING CAREER TERMINATED

YOUNG STRIBLING
Macon, Georgia, heavyweight, who suffered the loss of his left foot yesterday when the motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile near his home city. Stribling had one of the strangest careers in the history of the fight game. Possessing everything that goes to make a champion he bungled chance after chance to reach the top.

Cycle Accident Ends Career Of Young Stribling

Former Heavyweight Ring Contender Has Left Foot Amputated After Crash

One of Strangest Figures in History of Fight Game; Has Love For Speed

New York, Oct. 2.—Tragedy teamed with frustration to-day to end the strange and complex fighting career of Young Stribling with a final grotesque twist of the unbelievable.

He fought every champion of the last ten years from the middleweights up through the heavyweights, without ever suffering more than the normal hurts of the prize ring. He traveled many oceans, battled his way from here to Australia and back, and he was never in an accident. Saturated with a love for speed, he would shoot a car through curves and traffic and straight-aways at eighty miles an hour. He laughed and trod the speed pedal harder if you showed any fear.

He could take an airplane off the ground in a shivering instant, a veteran fliers gaped, but he never had a crash he could not walk away from, and only one or two of any kind.

And along comes a prosaic highway accident yesterday, the collision of his motorcycle and an automobile on a road outside of Macon, and in a hospital operating room a white-masked surgeon clips away the tendons still clinging to his severed left foot.

The prize ring never has known a more unusual character than Young Stribling.

EARLY PRO CAREER

He was a professional athlete before he could walk, the baby member of an acrobatic troupe which "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling, his parents, headed. It was the dream of his father that, some day he would grow up to be a fighter, something his father always wanted to be but couldn't.

At fifteen he was little bigger than a hantamweight, but was already launched upon a fighting career, "Pa" his manager, "Ma" his trainer. He came along steadily, growing with battle and the press.

Why he never won a title will go down now as one of the unsolved mysteries of the ring. Beautifully schooled as a boxer, tall and powerful, Stribling was the technical equal of any man he ever faced. When he chose to turn puncher he could hit with devastating power and accuracy.

He brushed aside Phil Scott in two rounds in England and massacred Johnny Squires in a round in New York. When he cut loose he tore fellows like Otto Von Porat, Jack De Mave and K. O. Christner loose from their hinges.

QUESTIONS HIS COURAGE

But when the biggest chances came, somehow he seemed always to fall. He held no desperately against the light hitting Longman in a tight heavyweight title fight, against Paul Berlin-

MERALOMA IN GRIDIRON WIN

Deadlock Canadian Football Series With V.A.C. By 12 to 8 Victory

Vancouver, Oct. 2.—A fighting Meraloma team, aided by the trusty boot of George Niblo, stellar halfback, kicked and plumed its way to a 12 to 8 victory over Vancouver Athletic Club in a big four Canadian Football game here Saturday.

Meraloma's win Saturday squared their series with the V.A.C. and forced a third game to decide the team to meet the winner of the Victoria-New Westminster series for the league title, and the right to travel east for the western Canada playoffs.

Niblo, whose attempted convert went wide of the goalposts the previous week, to give V.A.C. a 7 to 6 victory in the first game, gave Meraloma their margin of victory Saturday.

In the last half, with the score tied 6-6, the speedy backfielder boosted four deadline points to assure the black and orange squad of a win.

A stonewall defence, coupled with a speedy backfield and a pair of wins that smothered V.A.C. punt-receivers in their tracks, proved too much for the highly-touted steamroller tactics of the Burrell crew.

HAT TRICK WINS GAME

Reg. Wenman in Brilliant Bowling Feat to Capture Cricket For The Rest

All-star Team Defeats Albions By Single Run in Exciting Encounter

Featured by the brilliant bowling of Reg. Wenman, who performed the hat trick to dispose of three of the last five wickets, The Rest defeated the Albions by a single run in one of the most exciting cricket games of the current season, at Beacon Hill Park on Saturday afternoon. The match was the last of the year, the league champions meeting an all-star team from the remainder of the league. The score was 82 to 81.

The Rest batted first and compiled 82 runs all out. Darcus and Reg. Wenman topped the batters, the former contributing a 37 before being bowled by Pendry, and the latter making a knock of 21. Smith bowled well for the Albions, taking five wickets for 21 runs.

With the Albions at bat they only needed four runs to win with five men out, when Reg. Wenman bowled Smith, Enoch and Wood, with successive balls. The remaining two wickets fell for only two runs to conclude the most exciting of the year's games. Reg. and Godfrey Wenman took bowling honors the winners. Reg. taking six wickets for 35 runs, and Godfrey allowing 21 runs for three wickets.

Arsenal Surprises British Soccer By Securing J. Dunne

Gunners Put Through $35,000 Transfer to Sign Irish International

TWO PLAYERS IN SCORING FEATS

W. Richardson, West Bromwich, and Wesley, Gateshead, Each Net Four Goals

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 2.—A $35,000 player transfer had Britain's soccer world still gasping to-day as fans surveyed statistics of Saturday games that, among other things, brought undisputed leadership of the English Portsmouth.

The transfer sensation League's first division to was sprung by Herbert Chapman, Arsenal's manager, who signed on the famous Irish international, J. Dunne, leading scorer last year for Sheffield United. Dunne signed on the dotted line early in the morning and Chapman put him at centre forward against tail-end Middleborough. Gunners came through with a smashing 6 to 0 victory in which Dunne was credited with assisting three scorers. David, Jack and Birkett banged tallies before half-time and Birkett repeated in the second half. Bowden and Bastin got the other two goals. Bowden scoring his from a tricky back-heel pass by Dunne. The victory put Gunners within two points of the division leaders.

SCORE FOUR GOALS

Huddersfield Town, playing at home, walloped Sheffield United 6 to 1 on goals by J. Smith, McClean and Bott, each of whom scored twice. Heaviest individual scoring of the day was done by W. Richardson, who gave West Bromwich Albion four goals in its 6 to 1 win over Derby County, and Wesley, Gateshead, in the second division northern section shot the same number to help his team beat Hartlepool United 6 to 3.

Bolton Wanderers 3 to 1 victory over Burnley gave them top spot in the second division and left Notts County Fulham and Preston North End all tied for second place one point behind.

Wanderers showed improvement in their approach and scored two goals in the first half through Westwood and McKay. Their leads was cut to one early in the second half by Smith of Burnley, but Westwood came through with another tally before the whistle. Burnley failed to maintain its pep and finished poorly.

THREE-WAY TIE

Charlton Athletic, relegated last year from the second division, continued its strong bid for repromotion by winning 8 to 2 from Bristol Rovers and going into a tie with Norwich and Crystal Palace for first place in the southern section of the third division. Charlton opened the scoring with a header by Wilkinson, but Bristol led 2 to 1 at the interval after Smith scored twice. Charlton's pace, however, was too hot for the Rovers in the second half and the losers dropped their lead when Wilkinson repeated and N. Smith and Pearce scored, Pearce twice.

Chesterfield gained a lead of three points at the head of the northern section with a 3 to 0 victory over Barnsley, the team that shares second place with Barrow, Accrington Stanley and Blackpool.

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 2.—Motherwell and Rangers clung to first and second places in the Scottish Football League's first division Saturday by defeating Falkirk and Partick Thistle.

Motherwell defeated Falkirk 2 to 1 in a home game that gave the team its tenth victory in eleven matches, while Rangers took Partick 4 to 3.

McPadyen and Stevenson scored Motherwell's goals, while Grant got Falkirk's single. Rangers' tallies came (Turn to Page 18, Col. 5)

Hedging Sales In Wheat Market With Fractional Losses

Winnipeg, Oct. 2.—Belated selling, which had the appearance of hedging sales, shook a wave of price structure on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Compared to previous closing quotations, final figures were 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower.

Wheat prices moved over a narrow range throughout the day. The close was not far off bottom levels, with October option at 61 1/2, November at 61 1/2, December at 62 1/2, and May at 67 1/2 cents.

Export business in Canadian wheat to-day and over the week-end was only fair. Estimates of the movement placed it around 500,000 bushels. Though support was thin, there was an almost total lack of offerings most of the day.

No deliveries of wheat against the October option went through the clearing house to-day and little of note was contained in outside news. Chicago had a similar trend to Winnipeg. Liverpool wheat was dull and quotations closed unchanged to 1/4 lower, while Buenos Aires opened fractionally higher.

World wheat shipments for the past week totaled 9,750,000 bushels. Of this total, 4,250,000 bushels were of North American origin.

Dullness prevailing in wheat futures was reflected in the cash grains. Coarse grains trading, aside from a heavy delivery against the October option, was rather slow.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—President Roosevelt's address in Chicago to-day threw no light on the administration's financial programme, and grain prices sagged as the day drew to an end.

Wheat closed unchanged, 1/4 to 3/4 under Saturday's finish.

Ship Ends Career

Shrimohish Has Made Many Thrilling Rescues During Last Twenty-five Years

Passengers From H. F. Alexander and Crew From Ss. Tuscan Prince

Seattle, Oct. 2.—John Rogers, fireman on the Umatilla, reef lightship was wrecked. There was little his mates could do for him on the rolling, pitching deck. To lift anchor and head for home would have meant the treacherous rocks of Umatilla Reef unguarded and endanger the lives of hundreds of passengers and crew members of ships passing the storm.

Seventy miles away, back of Ediz Hook, lay the lifesaving tug Shrimohish, a veteran of many battles with North Pacific gales. It was a slim chance that John Rogers was dying and any chance was worth trying.

Wireless from the Umatilla sputtered call for help and the Shrimohish was racing through the blackened night. Angry seas swept over bows and whipped by a furious sea she was in spray.

MADE TRANSFER

In a blinding snowstorm at 1.30 in the morning, John Rogers, who had been transferred from the lightship Umatilla to the mercy ship Shrimohish, which soon was racing through the tumbling waves to Port Townsend. Government doctors at the emergency treatment and soon he was on the way to recovery. The coast-guard had saved another life.

Only one of scores of rescues was made through the night to the Umatilla Reef lightship for John Rogers, who was a small part of a record of glorious achievement, the last chapter of which will be written for the gallant ship is to be retired from service and replaced by one of the new 1650-ton cutters provided for in a coast-guard programme of construction call for twenty-seven vessels and thirty planes.

AY BE NAVY TUG

A decision as to the future service of the Shrimohish has not been reached. It may be given assignment as a navy tug or some other duty in the coast-guard service. It has been definitely decided to replace her by the Port Angeles boat with one of the new cutters provided for in allotments from the public works fund.

When the big coastal liner H. F. Alexander stranded on Cape Rock near the mouth of the Quillayute River, August, 1922, the Shrimohish went to the rescue of the vessel and took aboard the crew and passengers.

TURNING SHIP

In February, 1923, the Shrimohish rescued the crew of the freighter Nika, which burned to the water's edge off Michell Lightship. Nineteen men and an open boat and fourteen crew members taken off the fire-swept wreck, were rescued.

Before the Shrimohish could get the survivors of the Nika to port, she received distress calls from the British steamer Tuscan Prince, which was wrecked on Village Island, Barclay Sound, west of Vancouver Island and the Shrimohish sailed to the rescue. It was in peril for taking off the crews of those two ships the Shrimohish steamed into Port Angeles with 105 rescued mariners, record never equaled by a coast-guard vessel.

ALEXANDER WRECK

The Shrimohish was born of the wreck of the steamship Valencia, which sank on January 22, 1906, on the coast of Vancouver Island with a toll of 200 lives. At the time of the disaster there was no life-saving tug in the North Pacific and a few months later a movement was started to give shipping on this coast better protection. The result was the building of the Shrimohish with funds provided by special act of Congress.

Commanders of the Shrimohish have included the late W. H. Pope, F. L. Austin, R. C. Waeche, C. G. Roemer and Robert Donohue. The Shrimohish is now commanded by John E. Whitcomb, formerly of the cutter Albatross.

B.C.'S LUMBER TRADE GROWS

H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver, Visiting Montreal, Tells of Swing

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 2.—British Columbia's lumber exports to Great Britain have mounted to the greatest proportions in the history of the trade, according to H. R. MacMillan, head of the H. R. MacMillan Export Company Limited, Vancouver.

The price of European lumber increased several months ago, and as a result of Canada's tariff advantage British Columbia's lumber was under-sold by the European produce. The Pacific Coast province would be able to hold the improved market for some time as the Baltic Sea countries' season was nearly over.

Because the United States NRA plan had raised production costs in Oregon and Washington, British Columbia lumber was taking away export trade from the neighboring states. Mr. MacMillan said the inter-empire agreements had resulted in increases in the trade with Australia, but Great Britain held the major portion of the market, he declared.

(6) Security for home owners. Declaration of mortgage, to be action of a scheme of public works, such as the building of roads, schools, libraries, etc., the development of housing schemes, the electrification of the province, the development of irrigation and irrigation systems and other social enterprises. (b) Development of transportation systems throughout the province, based upon an express road system, the development of highways, the development of the natural resources of the province; propagation and conservation of the forests and game.

(10) Health. Socialization of all health services.

(11) Education. Establishment of a compulsory program of education, free to all, adapted to individual needs and designed to prepare young people for a full and complete participation in a co-operative order; creation of vocational schools, particularly in order to care for the educational needs of unemployed youths pending such time as they can be drafted into the industrial system.

(12) Revision of all provincial statutes in order to bring them into conformity with C.C.F. policies.

This platform, designed to apply the national C.C.F. principles to provincial affairs and aiming at a drastic shake-up in the present economic life of the province, was guided through the convention by H. C. E. Anderson, of Vancouver, who is one of the party's candidates. In an introductory clause it sets out the aim of the C.C.F. to "establish in Canada a co-operative commonwealth in which the principle of regulating production, distribution and exchange will be the supplying of human needs and not the making of profit."

There was considerable discussion at times reaching a broad description of different factions, over adoption of an amplification to the agricultural code as expressed in the fourth plank. This was especially drawn up to appeal to the farmer vote and takes as its main objective the bringing of agriculture into line with all C.C.F. industrial, labor and periods of leisure, and also the scientific determining of the size of farms and soil adaptability and market locations.

Reference was made during this discussion to the recent troubles in the Okanagan and to the attitude of farmers to the socialist way of thinking. Angus MacGillivray, M.P., said it was apparent that the farmers were not ready for complete socialization at the present time and declared that the present position would have to become worse before they would accept the C.C.F. principles.

FORCED INTO LINE

"We will have to force them to the socialist view by the pressure of the economic situation," he stated.

Several of the farmer members of the party were not agreed on the principle of regulating hours of labor by the agricultural code and they stated their objection would have to become worse before they would accept the C.C.F. principles.

Many governments have tried to regulate agriculture and even the Soviet's plan is unsuccessful," declared Robert Wood of Armstrong. "The only thing we can offer the farmers is something for the transition state. The proper thing is full socialization."

NOTHING TO SELL! Something to Tell!

HELLO! KIDS—Gee! I've had an awful time trying to pick the winners of our competition. You remember, I offered 22 prizes for the best short note or letter telling us the bad things you know about The General Warehouse. There has been so many replies and so many knocks that the Boss feels like a fly in a can of flit! The whole of our staff, along with a representative of the local press, acted as judges.

The first prize. The lovely Doll goes to Peggy Luck—Peggy you're in luck and this is what Peggy says:

FIRST PRIZE

I bought a pair of "Whoopee Pants,"

The elastic it was perished, And now I wish I had those pants.

For it's me that's getting perished!

When you have another "Sale," Don't open up at ten, 'Cause I'm the one that waits in line, As Mother looks all in, —PROXY LUCK, 117 Niagara St.

These Are the Next Best Ten Which Receive Manicure Sets: We bought a bathing suit from you, It was a pretty tan and blue; It will not shrink, the salesman said, When worn three times, was my face red?

If you don't put more stuff in yours, I'll have to join the Doughboys, —LOIS WELLSBURN, 26 Maddock Ave.

My dad bought some combs from your store— You said they were his size for sure, And he nearly had a fit, When he tried them on his split, And so they were used to help the floor, —KATHLEEN SCOTT, 1187 Hewlett Place.

Why do I have to wear Warehouse clothes, For the kids to laugh at, goodness knows, Ma says it's just because they're cheap, I feel so bad I have to weep, But don't worry, kids, I've got a plan, I know how to beat this Warehouse man, No more will I spend for candy and pop, But down to my bank with my money I'll hop, And when I get big, the Warehouse I'll buy, Then no more kids will have to cry, —GIVEN WOODLOCK, 564 Cecilia Rd.

The First Prize for the Boys goes to Harold Penderay for his dirty knock about the sweater and it was true because he sent his sales slip to prove it and get our goat as well as our best!

FIRST PRIZE

"Ma" bought me a sweater one fine day; I saw it, then shouted, "Hip, hip, hurrah!" But I shouted more in a day or so, For that poor old sweater was no more!

I just caught it on a nail, dear Phipps, When it then unwound and coiled 'round my hips!

The rotten old thing was no good at all, So send me the prize; I don't wish to call!

HAROLD PENDERAY, 590 Lodge Av.

Here's the Next Best Ten for the Boys. Each Will Receive a Watch

Shirts, Socks, Shoes, Pants, Step-ins, Step-outs, Coats and Knickers, Everything from soap to nuts, your ads give me the snickers. You say your prices are so low, but I'll bet you're making money. You're not in that line for your health. Something strikes me funny. Now, Mr. Phipps, here's some tips: Close your doors this minute. That look is mine, as sure as mine. I feel I'm going to win it, —LESLIE PRESCOTT, R.R.1, Victoria

Very hard times, money no loose, I come by your shop to buy me some shoes. The dem shoes fall off, my feet on the floor. Backward! I get even, one night in the dark. I crawl through the window, below my car park. I pile it up high, poor little she cry, Hal! Hal! We get even that dem Warehouse guy.

JACK WOOLCOCK, 564 Cecilia Rd.

I am glad we came to your store. Oh! the money we did save— But then you're just the undertaker Putting bankrupts in their grave, —MOORE, 528 Rinkert St.

I hate those pants the Warehouse sells, And leaves me room to grow, That's why they drag around my legs, That's why they wobble so. Are way down by my feet, And the way I know the front from the back, Is the hole that's on the seat. That's why they look so kind of queer, I'm going to tell them so. I hate those pants the Warehouse sells With "lots of room to grow," —DOUGLAS KNIGHT, R.R.1, Leiston, Victoria, B.C.

Prizes will be presented on Saturday next, October 7, at 10 a.m. Will all the Boys and Girls whose names appear on this page be at our store at that time. Good luck and thank you. We've learned a lot and will profit by your advice.

Yours truly,

Tillbert Phipps

NAVY VETERAN

CYCLES CANADA

Sixty-one-year-old Ex-sailor

Crosses Dominion in Sixty-one Days

Walter D. Jolliffe of Southsea, England, an ex-Royal Navy veteran of twenty-five and one-half years' service, has just completed a transatlantic trip from Montreal to Vancouver on a bicycle.

Mr. Jolliffe, who is sixty-one years of age, and the picture of health, says he feels ten years younger than when he started his long trip. The distance traversed is about 3,628 miles. Mr. Jolliffe left Montreal May 9 and reached Vancouver September 11, a total of 122 days, sixty-four days of which he stopped to visit friends and relatives and see the country, making the actual riding time just sixty-one days.

Mr. Jolliffe rides a Raleigh three-speed tourist bicycle and except for a few punctures had no trouble at all in Vancouver. He is making his headquarters at the Raleigh agency, Haskins and Elliott Ltd., 712 West Pender Street.

His mother bought me two dresses and a pair of shoes at that old store you run, and oh, they are bad, so bad I had to give them to my little sister or sell them back to you for that doll! —PROXY HARVEY, 121 Croft Street.

"I claim damages for the amount of the doll—for a nasty cold and afternoon spell through the rotten old bathing suit you sold me. I wore it to the beach picnic, and when I sat in the water, it exploded, and I had to sit there until everyone had gone." —VERA KNIGHT, R.R.1, Victoria.

"My mama bought me two dresses and a pair of shoes at that old store you run, and oh, they are bad, so bad I had to give them to my little sister or sell them back to you for that doll! —PROXY HARVEY, 121 Croft Street.

"I claim damages for the amount of the doll—for a nasty cold and afternoon spell through the rotten old bathing suit you sold me. I wore it to the beach picnic, and when I sat in the water, it exploded, and I had to sit there until everyone had gone." —VERA KNIGHT, R.R.1, Victoria.

Pitchers Enjoyed Banner Season In Big Time Baseball

Dominated Hitters in Both Leagues Which Closed Their Schedules Yesterday

BOSTON BRAVES FINISH FOURTH

Nose Out St. Louis For First
Division Berth; Ruth Pitches
Yankees to Win

The long grind of the baseball season, which started last April, again has narrowed down to the two-club battle for the world championship, which starts between Washington Senators and New York Giants to-morrow. The other fourteen major league clubs finished up their chores yesterday.

When the season started, New York Yankees, 1932 world champions, and Pittsburgh Pirates, were generally ranked as favorites. The end yesterday saw these two second in their leagues.

Meanwhile Washington came through with a powerful, well-balanced club to finish seven games in front of the Yankees, and the Giants' remarkable pitching and defensive strength gave them the pennant races, the season was notable mostly for the general swing from hitting to pitching dominance.

From start to finish it was a pitchers' year, and as a result batting averages were generally lower than last year.

NEW CHAMPIONS
The two new batting champions, Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Edd Roush of the Cincinnati Reds, were the only players to average over .300.

The regular meeting of the troop was opened by Major Hunter on Monday last. After a short period of patrol instruction, Major J. Wise, district commissioner, gave a short talk on the objectives of a district concert shortly. He explained that the purpose was a raise money to pay a man to go into the interior and start scouting in the lead thickly inhabited districts. The troop may stage a play on "All Baba and the Forty Thieves."

Tony Hope was appointed captain of the football team for the coming year. The team is as follows: Centre forward, Tony Hope; forwards, John MacPherson, Alex Walker, B. Acton, J. Tucker, H. Minnis; fullbacks, A. Merriman, G. Twelves; goal, V. Hooper.

The annual meeting of the Third Victoria (St. Barnabas) Scouts and Cubs group committee, was held in the district headquarters on Friday. The president, H. G. Slater, took the chair.

Under the direction of their scoutmaster, G. Lithgow, the scouts put on a display of work, which was followed by a "going up" ceremony of the pack, supervised by the C.M., J. Slater. Three of the Cubs were promoted to the rank of Scouts. Mrs. A. H. Phipps, C.M. of the St. Barnabas Pack, showed the committee the cup which the St. Barnabas Cubs had won in the softball league of the season.

The acting chairman read the secretary's annual report, giving a summary of the work of the committee during the year, and also that of the treasurer. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Major C. Holmes; vice-president, Mrs. A. Mainprize; secretary, Mrs. Dixon; treasurer, Mrs. R. A. Heister.

Major Wise, district commissioner, addressed the committee, telling of its duties and work. He reminded the members of the annual meeting of the local association in the district headquarters, on November 12, stating that all people interested in Scout work are welcome to attend.

Saanich Liberal Meetings This Week

N. W. Whitaker, Liberal candidate in Saanich and C. L. Whitney-Griffiths will address a joint meeting in Craigflower School on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Carew Martin of Victoria will also speak in support of the Liberal programme.

On Thursday evening at Lake Hill Community Hall Mrs. Paul Smith of Vancouver, Byron Johnson of Victoria and Mr. Whitaker will be the speakers. Ladies are especially invited to this meeting.

Mrs. Paul Smith, who is a Liberal candidate in the city of Vancouver is exceptionally well-informed on social and educational matters, and is an acknowledged leader of all movements making for the amelioration of the condition people who are to-day suffering from unemployment and its attendant evils.

WILLS PROBATED
Estates probated here include: James Inclendon Vellacott, late of Highland District, died July 17, 1933, $1,015.

George Oliver, late of Victoria, died April 20, 1933, $1,600.

Mark Green, late of Quamichan district, died August 25, 1933, $5,085.

World Series Ball Games to Be on Air

Both the NBC and CBS will have extensive networks in use when the World Series gets under way to-morrow at the Polo Grounds in New York City at 10:15 a.m., Victoria time. Ted Husing will handle the play-by-play description for the Columbia network while Graham McNamee will be in charge of the National hook-up.

Victoria listeners will also be able to hear the series over stations affiliated with the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission which is re-broadcasting the NBC description for the first two games and the CBS story for the last games.

Stations which will release the programmes for Victoria listeners include KOMO and KOL, Seattle; KCMY, Vancouver; KATL, Tacoma, and KSL, Salt Lake City.
